Parametric and Nonparametric Inference from Record-Breaking Data Sneh Gulati, William J. Padgett, 2013-03-14 As statisticians we are constantly trying to make inferences about the underlying population from which data are observed This includes estimation and prediction about the underlying population parameters from both complete and incomplete data Recently methodology for estimation and prediction from incomplete data has been found useful for what is known as record breaking data that is data generated from setting new records There has long been a keen interest in observing all kinds of records in particular sports records financial records flood records and daily temperature records to mention a few The well known Guinness Book of World Records is full of this kind of record information As usual beyond the general interest in knowing the last or current record value the statistical problem of prediction of the next record based on past records has also been an important area of record research Probabilistic and statistical models to describe behavior and make predictions from record breaking data have been developed only within the last fifty or so years with a relatively large amount of literature appearing on the subject in the last couple of decades This book written from a statistician's perspective is not a compilation of records rather it deals with the statistical issues of inference from a type of incomplete data record breaking data observed as successive record values maxima or minima arising from a phenomenon or situation under study Prediction is just one aspect of statistical inference based on observed record values

Spatial Statistics and Computational Methods Jesper Møller, 2013-04-17 Spatial statistics and Markov Chain Monte Carlo MCMC techniques have each undergone major developments in the last decade Also these two areas are mutually reinforcing because MCMC methods are often necessary for the practical implementation of spatial statistical inference while new spatial stochastic models in turn motivate the development of improved MCMC algorithms This volume shows how sophisticated spatial statistical and computational methods apply to a range of problems of increasing importance for applications in science and technology It consists of four chapters 1 Petros Dellaportas and Gareth O Roberts give a tutorial on MCMC methods the computational methodology which is essential for virtually all the complex spatial models to be considered in subsequent chapters 2 Peter J Diggle Paulo J Ribeiro Jr and Ole F Christensen introduce the reader to the model based approach to geostatistics i e the application of general statistical principles to the formulation of explicit stochastic models for geostatistical data and to inference within a declared class of models 3 Merrilee A Hurn Oddvar K Husby and Hvard Rue discuss various aspects of image analysis ranging from low to high level tasks and illustrated with different examples of applications 4 Jesper Møller and Rasmus P Waggepetersen collect recent theoretical advances in simulation based inference for spatial point processes and discuss some examples of applications The volume introduces topics of current interest in spatial and computational statistics which should be accessible to postgraduate students as well as to experienced statistical researchers It is partly based on the course material for the TMR and MaPhySto Summer School on Spatial Statistics and Computational Methods held at Aalborg University Denmark August 19 22 2001 Survival Analysis: State of the Art John P. Klein, P.K. Goel, 2013-03-09 Survival analysis is a highly active area of research with applications spanning the physical engineering biological and social sciences In addition to statisticians and biostatisticians researchers in this area include epidemiologists reliability engineers demographers and economists The economists survival analysis by the name of duration analysis and the analysis of transition data We attempted to bring together leading researchers with a common interest in developing methodology in survival analysis at the NATO Advanced Research Workshop The research works collected in this volume are based on the presentations at the Workshop Analysis of survival experiments is complicated by issues of censoring where only partial observation of an individual's life length is available and left truncation where individuals enter the study group if their life lengths exceed a given threshold time Application of the theory of counting processes to survival analysis as developed by the Scandinavian School has allowed for substantial advances in the procedures for analyzing such experiments The increased use of computer intensive solutions to inference problems in survival analysis in both the classical and Bayesian settings is also evident throughout the volume Several areas of research have received special attention in the volume Statistics on Special Manifolds Yasuko Chikuse, 2003-02-06 Covering statistical analysis on the two special manifolds the Stiefel manifold and the Grassmann manifold this book is designed as a reference for both theoretical and applied statisticians It will also be used as a textbook for a graduate course in multivariate analysis It is assumed that the reader is familiar with the usual theory of univariate statistics and a thorough background in mathematics in particular knowledge of multivariate calculation techniques Theory and Practice of Risk Assessment Christos P. Kitsos, Teresa A. Oliveira, Alexandros Rigas, Sneha Gulati, 2015-05-18 This book covers the latest results in the field of risk analysis Presented topics include probabilistic models in cancer research models and methods in longevity epidemiology of cancer risk engineering reliability and economical risk problems The contributions of this volume originate from the 5th International Conference on Risk Analysis ICRA 5 The conference brought together researchers and practitioners working in the field of risk analysis in order to present new theoretical and computational methods with applications in biology environmental sciences public health economics and finance Journal of the American Statistical Association, 2004 Nonlinear Times and Digest, 1994 Mathematical Reviews, 2004 Proceedings of the Section on Physical and Engineering Sciences American Statistical Association.
