Rwanda Country:

Rwanda International Monetary Fund. African Dept.,2023-12-18 The Rwandan economy is undergoing challenging times Development needs remain large and compounded shocks in recent years resulted in emerging internal and external imbalances Devastating floods from May 2023 amplified the underlying imbalances and the reconstruction costs are projected to be substantial Against this backdrop the authorities requested a new Fund financing arrangement to safeguard macroeconomic and external stability in the near term A 3 year Policy Coordination Instrument PCI and Resilience and Sustainability Facility RSF arrangements were approved in December 2022

How Immigrants Contribute to Rwanda's Economy OECD,International Labour Organization,2018-03-28 How Immigrants Contribute to Argentina s Economy is the result of a project carried out by the OECD Development Centre and the International Labour Organization with support from the European Union

Rwanda International Monetary,International Monetary Fund. African Dept.,2023-06-06 Recent developments Rwanda s economy continued with fast paced post pandemic growth in 2022 but macroeconomic imbalances have emerged Strong output in manufacturing and services sectors more than offset weaker agricultural production and construction activity Rising food prices and strong domestic demand fueled by high credit growth partly contributed to a persistent inflation which stood at 19.3 percent in March Robust import demand coupled with high commodity prices and tightening global financing conditions have weakened Rwanda s external position The uncertain external environment and the reduced prospects for external concessional financing are compounding the challenges from the legacy of the pandemic The authorities are committed to implementing frontloaded fiscal policy adjustment while the National Bank of Rwanda stands ready to take further actions to anchor inflation expectations The outlook is subject to high uncertainty mainly stemming from deepening geopolitical fragmentation volatility in global energy and fertilizer prices a steeper than projected decline in trading partners growth or a funding squeeze

Rwanda, a Country Study,1982 Rwanda's agrifood system: Structure and drivers of transformation Diao, Xinshen, Ellis, Mia, Mugabo, Serge, Pauw, Karl, Rosenbach, Gracie, Spielman, David J., Thurlow, James, 2023-01-25 This paper assesses the structure of Rwanda s current and evolving agrifood system and its contribution to national development The paper reiterates the point that Rwanda s agrifood system stretches well beyond primary agriculture and creates jobs and income opportunities throughout the economy While off farm components of Rwanda s agrifood system have generally grown more rapidly than primary agriculture in recent years growth varies across value chains of the agrifood system in the studied period The growth diagnostic in this paper reveals that it is domestic markets that have driven the recent growth in Rwanda s AFS other than exports The paper s forward looking analysis assesses potentially differential impacts of value chain development efforts on broad development outcomes The analysis measures the synergies and trade offs of value chain development in the context of an inclusive agricultural transformation Such analysis is conducted using the Rwanda Computable General Equilibrium CGE model an adaption of IFPRI s Rural

Investment and Policy Analysis RIAPA model to the Rwandan context The modeling results indicate that value chains differ considerably in their effectiveness in achieving development goals and there are significant trade offs among different development goals from promoting a specific value chain The value chains that make a larger contribution to growth or job creation are not necessarily effective in reducing poverty or improving dietary quality for example value chains for coffee and tea while value chains that play an important role in improving dietary quality may contribute less to job creation such as vegetables or fruits While there is no single value chain that can achieve all development goals effectively it is possible to select a diversified set of value chains that complement each other in achieving different development goals This latter strategy is a more realistic approach to growth and development

Rwanda, Inc. Patricia Crisafulli, Andrea Redmond, 2012-11-13 Eighteen years after the genocide that made Rwanda international news but left it all but abandoned by the West the country has achieved a miraculous turnaround Rising out of the complete devastation of a failed state Rwanda has emerged on the world stage yet again this time with a unique model for governance and economic development under the leadership of its strong and decisive president Paul Kagame Here Patricia Crisafulli Andrea Redmond look at Kagame s leadership his drive for excellence and execution that draws comparisons to an American CEO and emphasizes the development of a sophisticated and competitive workforce that leverages human capital In Rwanda the ultimate turnaround strong and effective leadership has made a measurable and meaningful difference Rwanda s progress offers an example for other developing nations to lift themselves out of poverty without heavy reliance on foreign aid through decentralization accountability self determination and self sufficiency The authors also explore Rwanda s journey toward its goal of becoming a middle income nation with a technology based economy and its progress to encourage private sector development and foster entrepreneurship while also making gains in education healthcare and food security and all with a strong underpinning of reconciliation and unification As so many nations stand on the brink of political and economic revolution this is a timely and fascinating look at the implications of Rwanda s success for the rest of the continent and the world

Ethnicity and Sociopolitical Change in Africa and Other Developing Countries Santosh C. Saha,2008-03-07 Ethnicity and Sociopolitical Change in Africa and Other Developing Countries uses an integrated multidisciplinary approach to understanding regional and local community culture and sociopolitical development in developing countries especially in Sub Saharan Africa The editor Santosh C Saha and the contributors argue that the state as well as civil society confers a legitimacy on cultural differences that can be achieved in no other way but by positive cooperation Contributors from different countries look at local patterns in state building and modernization as they have unfolded over the course of the last fifty years Evoking positive movements such as the social changes in China economic development in India and the democratization processes in Rwanda and Burundi these essays show how the support of popular sovereignty by these ethnic groups can be a vehicle for improvement In contrast the ethnic conflicts of Cyprus Turkey India and Rwanda have no moral sanction Instead the contributors agree some form of accommodation between opposing ethnically diversified groups as well as between state and ethnic elements is feasible Ethnicity and Sociopolitical Change in Africa and Other Developing Countries is an important book for all levels of students and scholars
