Mappings In Thought And Language:

Mappings in Thought and Language Gilles Fauconnier, 1997-06-13 Meaning in everyday thought and language is constructed at lightning speed We are not conscious of the staggering complexity of the cognitive operations that drive our simplest behavior This 1997 book examines a central component of meaning construction the mappings that link mental spaces A deep result of the research is that the same principles operate at the highest levels of scientific artistic and literary thought and at the lower levels of elementary understanding and sentence meaning Some key cognitive operations are analogical mappings conceptual integration and blending discourse management induction and recursion The analyses are based on a rich array of attested data in ordinary language humor action and design science and narratives Phenomena that receive attention include counterfactuals time tense and mood opacity metaphor fictive motion grammatical constructions quantification over cognitive domains

How Can Physics Underlie the Mind? George Ellis, 2016-05-31 Physics underlies all complexity including our own existence how is this possible How can our own lives emerge from interactions of electrons protons and neutrons This book considers the interaction of physical and non physical causation in complex systems such as living beings and in particular in the human brain relating this to the emergence of higher levels of complexity with real causal powers In particular it explores the idea of top down causation which is the key effect allowing the emergence of true complexity and also enables the causal efficacy of non physical entities including the value of money social conventions and ethical choices

Cognitive Mappings for Language and Thought Gilles Fauconnier, 1997

The Body in Language Horst Ruthrof, 2015-12-17 This book opposes the position that meanings can be explained by way of intralinguistic relations as in structural linguistics and its successors and rejects definitional descriptions of meaning as well as naturalistic accounts The idea that we are able to live by strings of mere signifiers is shown to rest on a misconception Ruthrof also attempts an explanation of why arguments grounded in a post Saussurean view of language as for instance certain feminist theories find it so difficult to show how precisely the body can be reclaimed as an integral part of linguistic signs In reinstating the body in language Ruthrof draws on Peirce Husserl Heidegger Wittgenstein and Derrida cognitive linguistics and rhetoric as well as on the writings of Helen Keller

A New Agenda in (critical) Discourse Analysis Ruth Wodak, Paul Anthony Chilton, 2005-01-01 Critical Discourse Analysis CDA has established itself over the past two decades as an area of academic activity in which scholars and students from many different disciplines are involved It is a field that draws on social theory and aspects of linguistics in order to understand and challenge the discourses of our day It is time for A New Agenda in the field The present book is essential for anyone working broadly in the field of discourse analysis in the social sciences The book includes often critical re assessments of CDA s assumptions and methods while proposing new route maps for innovation Practical analyses of major issues in discourse analysis are part of this agenda setting volume

The Pragmatics of Perception and Cognition in MT Jeremiah 1:1-6:30 Elizabeth Russell Hayes, 2008

Recent advances in cognitive linguistics provide new avenues for reading and interpreting Biblical Hebrew prophetic text. This volume utilises a multi-layered cognitive linguistics approach to explore Jeremiah 1:1-6:30 incorporating insights from cognitive grammar, cognitive science and conceptual blending theory. While the modern reader is separated from the originators of these texts by time, space and culture, this analysis rests on the theory that both the originators and the modern reader share common features of embodied experience. This opens the way for utilising cognitive models, conceptual metaphor and mental spaces theory when reading and interpreting ancient texts. This volume provides an introduction to cognitive theory and method. Initially, short examples from Jeremiah 1:1-6:30 are used to introduce the theory and method. This is followed by a detailed comparison of traditional and cognitive approaches to Biblical Hebrew grammar. These insights are then applied to further examples taken from Jeremiah 1:1-6:30 in order to test and refine the approach. These findings show that Jeremiah 1:1-3 establishes perspective for the text as a whole and that subsequent shifts in perspective may be tracked using aspects of mental spaces theory. Much of the textual content yields to concepts derived from conceptual metaphor studies and from conceptual blending theory which are introduced and explained using examples taken from Jeremiah 1:1-6:30. The entire analysis demonstrates some of the strengths and weaknesses of using recent cognitive theories and methods for analysing and interpreting ancient texts. While such theories and methods do not obviate the need for traditional interpretive methods, they do provide a more nuanced understanding of the ancient text.

Figurative Language and Thought Albert N. Katz, Cristina Cacciari, Raymond W. Gibbs Jr., Mark Turner, 1998-09-10. Our understanding of the nature and processing of figurative language is central to several important issues in cognitive science including the relationship of language and thought, how we process language and how we comprehend abstract meaning. Over the past fifteen years, traditional approaches to these issues have been challenged by experimental psychologists, linguists and other cognitive scientists interested in the structures of the mind and the processes that operate on them. In Figurative Language and Thought, internationally recognized experts in the field of figurative language, Albert Katz, Mark Turner, Raymond W. Gibbs Jr. and Cristina Cacciari provide a coherent and focused debate on the subject. The book's authors discuss a variety of fundamental questions including: What can figures of speech tell us about the structure of the conceptual system? If and how should we distinguish the literal from the nonliteral in our theories of language and thought? Are we primarily figurative thinkers and consequently figurative language users, or the other way around? Why do we prefer to speak metaphorically in everyday conversation when literal options may be available for use? Is metaphor the only vehicle through which we can understand abstract concepts? What role do cultural and social factors play in our comprehension of figurative language? These and related questions are raised and argued in an integrative look at the role of nonliteral language in cognition. This volume, a part of the Counterpoints series, will be thought-provoking reading for a wide range of cognitive psychologists, linguists and philosophers. □□□□□□, 2005-10. Body - Language - Communication. Volume 1 Cornelia Müller, Alan Cienki, Ellen Fricke, Silva Ladewig, David McNeill, Sedinha Tessedorf, 2013-10-14 Volume I of the handbook presents contemporary multidisciplinary historical theoretical and methodological aspects of how body movements relate to language. It documents how leading scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds conceptualize and analyze this complex relationship. Five chapters and a total of 72 articles present current and past approaches including multidisciplinary methods of analysis. The chapters cover I How the body relates to language and communication. Outlining the subject matter. II Perspectives from different disciplines. III Historical dimensions. IV Contemporary approaches. V Methods. Authors include Michael Arbib, Janet Bavelas, Marino Bonaiuto, Paul Bouissac, Judee Burgoon, Martha Davis, Susan Duncan, Konrad Ehlich, Nick Enfield, Pierre Feyereisen, Raymond W Gibbs, Susan Goldin Meadow, Uri Hadar, Adam Kendon, Antja Kennedy, David McNeill, Lorenza Mondada, Fernando Poyatos, Klaus Scherer, Margret Selting, Jürgen Streeck, Sherman Wilcox, Jeffrey Wollock, Jordan Zlatev.
