The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State Roger J. P. Kain, Elizabeth Baigent, 1992 Throughout history the control of land has been the basis of political power Cadastral maps cartographic records of property ownership played an important role in the rise of modern Europe as tools for the consolidation and extension of land based national power The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State A History of Properly Mapping illustrated with 127 maps traces the development and application of rural property mapping in Europe and European colonies from the Renaissance through the nineteenth century The authors go beyond traditional cartographic research approaching the maps as political instruments rather than as simple geographical or historical tools The result is an unprecedented examination of the political and economic forces behind the production of maps and advances in cartography demonstrating how the seemingly neutral science of cartography became a political instrument for national interests Beginning with a review of the roots of cadastral mapping in the Roman Empire the authors concentrate on the use of cadastral maps in the Netherlands France England the Nordic countries the German lands the territories of the Austrian Habsburgs and the European colonies During the seventeenth century governments began to use maps to secure economic and political bases by the nineteenth century these maps had become tools for aggressive governmental control of land as tax bases natural resources and national territories The culmination of extensive bibliographic and archival research made possible by the authors considerable linguistic skills this work draws from source materials in ten languages and spanning five centuries It will remain the definitive source on the subject for years to come The Cadastral Map in the Service of the State was awarded the 1991 Kenneth Nebenzahl Prize for the best new manuscript in the history of cartography

Place, Identity, and National Imagination in Post-war Taiwan Bi-yu Chang, 2015-03-24 In the struggles for political and cultural hegemony that Taiwan has witnessed since the 1980s the focal point in contesting narratives and the key battlefield in the political debates are primarily spatial and place based The major fault line appears to be a split between an imposed identity emphasizing cultural origin China and an emphasis on the recovery of place identity of the local Taiwan Place Identity and National Imagination in Postwar Taiwan explores the ever present issue of identity in Taiwan from a spatial perspective and focuses on the importance of and the relationship between state spatiality and identity formation Taking postwar Taiwan as a case study the book examines the ways in which the Kuomintang regime naturalized its political control territorialized the island and created a nationalist geography In so doing it examines how why and to what extent power is exercised through the place making process and considers the relationship between official versions of ROC geography and the islanders shifting perceptions of the nation In turn by addressing the relationship between the state and the imagined community Bi yu Chang establishes a dialogue between place and cultural identity to analyse the constant changing and shaping of Chinese and Taiwanese identity With a diverse selection of case studies including cartographical development geography education territorial declaration and urban planning this interdisciplinary book will have a broad appeal across Taiwan studies geography cultural studies history and politics Virginia Cartography Philip Lee Phillips,1896 Nearby History David E.
