Franca Jamieson's company will try to marry convenient helicopter travel with 'enjoyable golf, fine dining and beautiful scenery'

In Niagara's burgeoning scene of high-end wine, golf and luxury dining, the sky's the limit.

And Franca Jamieson is trying to take people there.

Jamieson is the owner of Niagara Hel-Golf Inc., which conducts helicopter services through Niagara Helicopters Ltd.

She said her company is looking to marry convenience with "enjoyable golf, fine dining and beautiful scenery."

Her company's packages include other destinations as far afield as the region's two-year-old Skyway Helicopters Inc. or the Niagara District Airport, for instance, also don't seem to have similar luxury levels as Pellos, Hallowell, Harbord and, in the past, the Royal Niagara Golf Club.

But Jamieson says her Niagara Hel-Golf company, launched in June, offers its own twist on the game.

"We're going to be providing optimum luxury services with these golf packages," she said. "And here, the wine and top dining makes us want to be known for."

Jamieson is completing her last year as a senior management officer with Citizenship and Immigration Canada and plans to devote her investment energies to her new company.

It's a natural fit, says the 55-year-old Niagara Falls resident.

"I've been dealing with people and every facet of a person's travelling for 30 years."

Let's do something extreme. Let's take them up by helicopter and land them on the golf course — that would be really prestigious.

Hel-Golf, he said, seems designed to appeal to the kind of upscale market the club was seeking.

Jamieson's company will also coordinate flexible helicopter pick-up spots and organize designer packages based on the desires of its clients.

Right now, she's advertising in newspapers and golf magazines and hopes to extend that to wine and food publications.

"We've had a lot of inquiries, I've been doing a lot of quotes," she said. "For one-day and two-day packages we can introduce you to Vinesand Estates and Peninsula Ridge wineries, where our clients will dine. Helicopter golf trips to Muskoka are also being offered."

"Given it's an upscale area, they're going to have the best," she said. "It's a complete dinner and they have their own private dining rooms."

For example, the one-day Niagara tour to the elite three-hole Abbey Golf Course in Okanada begins with clients being picked up by limo at their homes and taken to the helipad.
