Realist Evaluation in Practice Libby Kalucy,2004 Realist Evaluation: An Emerging Theory in Support of Practice Gary T. Henry,George Julnes,Melvin M. Mark,1998-06-29 Why is another theory of evaluation needed The paradigm wars have left a void in their wake A new theory firmly grounded in a credible philosophy of science is needed to guide practice The aim of this volume is to provide a new theory that captures the sensemaking contributions from post positivism and the sensitivity to values from constructivist traditions The theory presented here is not a slap dash synthesis of the competing paradigms it is a new approach Some of the contributions of the realist theory of evaluation are 1 providing a basis for principled discovery as we oscillate between explanations and data 2 using explanation as a means for extrapolating findings from one evaluation to other settings 3 viewing all methods both quantitative and qualitative as aids to sensemaking that have strengths and flaws 4 connecting evaluation practice with the ultimate goal of most program evaluation social betterment and 5 balancing the focus of the evaluation between sensemaking and value inquiry This is the 78th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation

Evaluation Practice Reconsidered Thomas A. Schwandt,2002 Taken collectively the ideas explored here suggest a way of reasoning about and engaging in evaluation that is not bound either to the characterization of evaluation as applied social science or to efforts to foster the development of evaluation as a professional practice of experts Rather the book explores evaluation as practical hermeneutics

Critical Social Theory and Evaluation Practice Melissa Freeman,2010-10-12 As a practice meant to improve society evaluation is implicated in discussions about which societal and cultural values and principles of justice will prevail and which ones will get subverted or ignored altogether For the most part as currently configured the relationship of evaluators to policy makers has jeopardized evaluation s ability to provide the critical lens needed for feedback on the effects of a society s practices policies and structures Many theorists believe that it is only by examining and critically assessing how knowledge is produced and reproduced in society that we can better reflect on and imagine new more socially just social configurations and relations One such approach critical theory is a pedagogical practice that employs a systemic and historical critique of social and cultural formations and practices in a way that fosters citizens abilities to evaluate and alter them The intent of this issue of New Directions for Evaluation is to show the relevance of critical social theory for evaluation practice Each of the authors in this volume addresses in a different way and from a variety of disciplinary fields what a critical theory lens might offer evaluation practice This is the 127th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation an official publication of the American Evaluation Association

Theorists' Models in Action Marvin Alkin, 2005-08-11 This volume analyzes how evaluation theorists apply their approach in practice A scenario of a situation at an elementary school is presented to four prominent theorists who describe how they would design and conduct an evaluation of the school s program The editors consider the theorists proposed evaluations as well as their subsequent comments to develop themes related to the influence of theory and context on practice They also provide a comparative analysis of the theorists evaluation approaches in relation to the context of evaluation case presented Evaluation theorists seem to be quite good at propounding on how they think the evaluation world ought to work Yet do we really know that what theorists say they would do in practice is indeed what they would actually do Evaluation after all is situational Each context offers its own constituency set of values programmatic elements bureaucratic hurdles and other variables This volume demonstrates why evaluators need to adapt their point of view to a particular situation and provides much needed study and analysis on the way in which they make those adaptations This is the 106th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation
