Recasting The World:

Recasting the World Jonathan White,1993 In Recasting the World Jonathan White brings together a distinguished group of contributors to examine aspects of postcolonial literatures in English from around the world A World Recast Simon Serfaty,2012-10-12 The end of the unipolar moment completes the passing of a Western era that was prolonged for half a century when the United States took over for a defeated and exhausted group of European states after World War II Distinguished scholar Simon Serfaty vigorously argues that while it is possible and even desirable to acknowledge the passing of the Western era it is exaggerated to present it as an irreversible decline of the West relative to an irresistible rise of the Rest Rather he shows that the unfolding post Western moment will be messy In addition to the United States and the states of Europe as a Union the new cast of significant powers will involve a dozen or more countries emerging powers like China and India postimperial powers such as Japan and Russia new influentials like Brazil and Turkey pivot states like Egypt and Pakistan nuisance states like Iran failed or failing states like North Korea and Sudan and others Echoes of a Sarajevo moment played out this time in the greater Middle East the new global Balkans for the twenty first century But Serfaty convincingly contends that even during a zero polar moment of geopolitical transition American power remains superior and thus indispensable though no longer decisive Western power stands on top and thus is inescapable though no longer exclusive and even as the Rest gains broadly in stature and reach it is unlikely to achieve preponderance any time soon This powerful and provocative book should be read by all who share a deep concern for the future of America and a recast world

Democratic Industry Joseph Husslein,1919 The Concept of World from Kant to Derrida Sean Gaston,2013-09-20 In the mid eighteenth century metaphysics was broadly understood as the study of three areas of philosophical thought theology psychology and cosmology This book examines the fortunes of the third of these formidable metaphysical concepts the world Sean Gaston provides a clear and concise account of the concept of world from the mid eighteenth century to the end of the twentieth century exploring its possibilities and limitations and engaging with current issues in politics and ecology He focuses on the work of five principal thinkers Kant Hegel Husserl Heidegger and Derrida all of whom attempt to establish new grounds for seeing the world as a whole Gaston presents a critique of the self evident use of the concept of world in philosophy and asks whether one can move beyond the need for a world like vantage point to maintain a concept of world From Kant to the present day this concept has been a problem for philosophy and it remains to be seen if we need a new Copernican revolution when it comes to the concept of world Multilingual Literature as World Literature Jane Hiddleston,Wen-chin Ouyang,2021-05-06 Multilingual Literature as World Literature examines and adjusts current theories and practices of world literature particularly the conceptions of world global and local reflecting on the ways that multilingualism opens up the borders of language nation and genre and makes visible different modes of circulation across languages nations media and cultures The contributors to Multilingual Literature as World Literature examine four major areas of critical research First by looking at how engaging with multilingualism as a mode of reading makes visible the multiple pathways of circulation including as aesthetics or poetics emerging in the literary world when languages come into contact with each other Second by exploring how politics and ethics contribute to shaping multilingual texts at a particular time and place with a focus on the local as a site for the interrogation of global concerns and a call for diversity Third by engaging with translation and untranslatability in order to consider the ways in which ideas and concepts elude capture in one language but must be read comparatively across multiple languages And finally by proposing a new vision for linguistic creativity beyond the binary structure of monolingualism versus multilingualism The World's Work, 1917 A history of our time

Dedicatory and Opening Ceremonies of the World's Columbian Exposition, 1893 Recasting Ancient Egypt in the African Context Clinton Crawford, 1996 This is a timely work which seeks to place Egypt in its true historical context It captures the substantial unmistakable evidence for the indigenous African origin of the ancient Egyptians It also examines the genius behind their invaluable achievement in concretizing and codifying the hieroglyphic system of writing that they inherited from their ancestors It explains their mastery of the arts and sciences as displayed in their monumental architectural feats And finally it analyzes their highly organized not surprisingly matriarchal social system which made it possible for so many of their unsurpassed contributions to be bequeathed to human cultures everywhere Unlike conventional treatments of ancient Egypt however this innovative text renders the collected data accessible to layman and expert alike through its framework of suggested curriculum outlines thus ensuring this book's usefulness to the general public as well as to educational institutions Professor Crawford has made every effort to show that art and language are weapons in a nation's cultural survival In preparing this book with the hope that it will be used in a multicultural curriculum he has opened a new educational door by showing the true significance of ancient Egyptian art and language John Henrik Clarke Professor Emeritus Hunter College Blending Egyptology with progressive education philosophy Crawford argues that Egyptian studies with a focus on art and language is a necessary and empowering course of study for African American students and for students from other backgrounds as well Keith Gilyard Syracuse University Dr Crawford cites chapter and verse as to how we can naturally fashion the curriculum to reflect both our diverse legacies and contributions to society and in so doing
