Realizing The University:

Realizing The University Barnett, Ronald, 1999-12-01 The University has lost its way The world needs the university more than ever but for new reasons If we are to clarify its new role in the world we need to find a new vocabulary and a new sense of purpose This book offers nothing less than a fundamental reworking of the way in which we understand the modern university

Realizing the University Ronald Barnett, 1997 Professor Barnett argues that if we are to gain a distinctive role for the university in the modern age we need a new vocabulary and a new sense of purpose what is called for is a reconstruction of the university if it is to be adequate to the challenges of the modern age There are four terms around which we should rebuild the university unpredictability uncertainty contestability and challengeability These concepts constitute a constellation of fragility they mark out a fragile world to which the university as a source of critical thought has contributed The university is faced not just with complexity but with supercomplexity in which our very frames of understanding action valuing and self identity are all continually challenged In such a world the university has explicitly to take on a dual role firstly of compounding supercomplexity especially through its research role and secondly principally through its teaching role of enabling us to live effectively with all the discomforts of supercomplexity Internally too the university has to become a new kind of organization adept at fulfilling this dual role The university has to live by the uncertainty principle it has to generate uncertainty to help us live uncertainty and even to revel in our uncertainty In an age where everything is uncertain there is no other task

Christian Theology and the Secular University Paul A. Macdonald, Jr., 2017-02-24 If the secular university by definition is non sectarian or non denominational then how can it accommodate a discipline like Christian theology Doesn't the traditional goal of theological study which is to attain knowledge of the divine fundamentally conflict with the main goal of secular academic study which is to attain knowledge about ourselves and the world in which we live So why should theology be admitted or even care about being admitted into secular academic life And even if theology were admitted what contribution to secular academic life could it make Working from a Christian philosophical and theological perspective but also engaging a wide range of theologians philosophers and religious studies scholars Christian Theology and the Secular University takes on these questions arguing that Christian theology does belong in the secular university because it provides distinct resources that the secular university needs if it is going to fulfill what should be its main epistemic and educative ends This book offers a fresh and unique perspective to scholars working in the disciplines of theology philosophy and religious studies and to those in other academic disciplines who are interested in thinking critically and creatively about the place and nature of theological study within the secular university
