PHILOSOPHY 101

LECTURE 1: INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY

PHILOSOPHY 101 is a course designed to introduce students to the fundamental questions and methods of philosophy. The course covers a wide range of topics, including metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, and political philosophy. The primary goal is to develop critical thinking skills and to explore the foundations of human knowledge and values.

The course is structured around several key themes and questions:

- Metaphysics: What is the nature of reality? What are the basic building blocks of the universe? How do we understand the relationship between the mind and the body?
- Epistemology: How do we know what we know? What are the limits of human knowledge? What is the role of reason and evidence in the pursuit of truth?
- Ethics: What is the good life? How should we live? What are our moral obligations to others? How do we justify our actions?
- Political Philosophy: What is the purpose of government? What are the rights and responsibilities of citizens? How should we organize society?

Throughout the course, students will engage in critical reading, discussion, and writing. The course is designed to be challenging and thought-provoking, and it is expected that students will emerge with a deeper understanding of the philosophical tradition and the ability to think independently and creatively.

For more information about the course, please visit the Philosophy Department website at <http://www.philosophy.uchicago.edu>.
