Ontology Based Query Processing For Global Information Systems:

Ontology-Based Query Processing for Global Information Systems Eduardo Mena, Arantza Illarramendi, 2012-12-06

This work is a revision of the doctoral dissertation of Eduardo Mena presented to the Department of Computer Science and System Engineering at the University of Zaragoza Spain in November 1998. Mena 98 The OBSERVER system was developed as a result of this Ph D thesis. This book is composed of eight chapters. In Chapter 1 we introduce our rationale for writing a book about systems that process queries in global information systems. Then in Chapter 2 we review the technological context for our work including distributed and heterogeneous environments and the use of ontologies. We also compare related work to our own. Chapter 3 presents our proposed global system architecture for query processing in global information systems. The main modules in the architecture and the main steps given to process a query are briefly introduced. Chapters 4 through 7 provide a detailed description of each query processing step. In Chapter 4 we detail the steps needed to access the data corresponding to a query formulated over an ontology. All the aspects related to distribution, structural and semantic heterogeneity and restricted query capabilities of the underlying data repositories are considered in this chapter. The main features of the mapping information that relates ontologies and data repositories are also described. Finally we show the process of generating appropriate plans to access each involved repository and the correlation of the answers coming from different repositories.

Cooperative Information Agents VII Matthias Klusch, Sascha Ossowski, Andrea Omicini, Heimo Laamanen, 2003-08-14. These are the proceedings of the 7th International Workshop on Cooperative Information Agents CIA 2003 held at the Sonera Conference Center in Helsinki Finland August 27-29 2003. It was co-located with the 4th Agentcities Information Days. One key challenge of developing advanced agent-based information systems is to balance the autonomy of networked data and knowledge sources with the potential payoff of leveraging them by the appropriate use of intelligent information agents on the Internet. An information agent is a computational software entity that has access to one or multiple heterogeneous and distributed data and information sources, proactively searches for and maintains relevant information on behalf of its human users or other agents, preferably just in time. In other words, it is managing and overcoming the difficulties associated with information overload in the open and exponentially growing Internet and Web. Depending on the application and tasks at hand, information agents may collaborate in open networked data and information environments to provide added value to a variety of applications in different domains. Thus, research and development of information agents is inherently interdisciplinary. It requires expertise in information retrieval, artificial intelligence, database systems, human-computer interaction, and Internet and Web technology. Initiated in 1997, the purpose of the annual international workshop series on cooperative information agents CIA is to provide an interdisciplinary forum for researchers, software developers, and managers to get informed about present and discuss the latest high quality results in advancements of theory and practice in information agent technology for the Internet and Web. Each event of this renowned series attempts to capture the intrinsic interdisciplinary nature of this research area by calling for contributions from different research communities and by promoting open and informative discussions on all related topics
