Pathfinder or the inland sea by James Fenimore Cooper

CHAPTER I

The turf shall be my fragrant shrine
My temple Lord that arch of thine
My censer s breath the mountain airs
And silent thoughts my only prayers

MOORE

The sublimity connected with vastness is familiar to every eye
The most abstruse the most far reaching perhaps the most chastened of the poet s thoughts crowd on the imagination as he gazes into the depths of the illimitable void
The expanse of the ocean is seldom seen by the novice with indifference and the mind even in the obscurity of night finds a parallel to that grandeur which seems inseparable from images that the senses cannot compass
With feelings akin to this admiration and awe the offspring of sublimity were the different characters with which the action of this tale must open gazing on the scene before them
Four persons in all two of each sex they had managed to ascend a pile of trees that had been upturned by a tempest to catch a view of the objects that surrounded them
It is still the practice of the country to call these spots wind rows
By letting in the light of heaven upon the dark and damp recesses of the wood they form a sort of oases in the solemn obscurity of the virgin forests of America
