leaning slightly toward the wall If our horses lost their footing we hoped to be able to jump clear of them and land on the trail A lump the size of a softball threatened to choke me each time I heard a piece of the trail crumble beneath our horse s feet sending rock and dirt tumbling over the edge We had reached a point of no return We had no idea what lay ahead of us there was no way to turn around no way to back the horses out of where we were and at this point dismounting was a physical impossibility due to the close proximity of the rock face and the narrow width of the trail We both knew that we were in a potentially life threatening situation If a cougar or a snake spooked the horses we would all have a one way ticket to the rocky bottom of the canyon far below That gruesome thought was still in my mind when our bad situation grew decidedly more complicated As I focused on the trail ahead my mind rejected what my eyes could clearly see Thirty feet ahead of us the trail simply disappeared All I could see beyond that point was air and lots of it I wondered if Edie who rode only a few feet behind me saw what I saw She did
