The Possible World Machine Geoffrey Klempner, 2019-01-07 How different might the world have been from the way it actually is Thinking about possible worlds is an important tool of philosophy Such thought experiments challenge our intuitions concerning the limits of logic and meaning The program is based on a series of original short stories each raising a different philosophical problem or theme Topics covered include the idea of philosophical knowledge freedom of the will the existence of the soul knowledge and scepticism our knowledge of other minds the objectivity of moral values the criteria for personal identity our fear of death appearance and reality space and time the reality of the past the definition of truth fatalism and the future the existence of possible worlds

The Ultimate Nature of Things: Pathways Program F. Metaphysics Geoffrey Klempner, 2019-01-07 Is there more to existence than the familiar objects of sense perception or the underlying structures that science describes Are there things that lie beyond the mundane world of empirical inquiry things whose nature can only be approached through pure reasoning While some philosophers today remain sceptical about such a possibility others continue to hold theories that are unashamedly metaphysical One theory formulated over two centuries ago that still finds adherents today is Berkeley's immaterialism the view that our familiar material world of objects in space is ultimately composed of mental entities such as perceptions in the mind of God We shall be looking at this and other similar theories and examining their claims to credibility

The First Philosophers: Pathways Program C. Ancient Philosophy Geoffrey Klempner, 2019-01-07 How did philosophy begin Some time around 600 BC in ancient Greece a radically new idea took root Beliefs about a world derived from religious dogma and often lurid myths handed down from generation to generation gave way to the idea of logos the notion of a universe structured on rational principles a structure which human beings could uncover with the aid of reason and logic Exactly how the idea arose remains a mystery But it was the seed of all that has subsequently come under the name of Philosophy right up to the present time By delving into the fragments that have been preserved of the theories and writings of these first pre Socratic philosophers such as Thales Anaximander Zeno and Parmenides we shall encounter problems and paradoxes that remain unsolved to this day as well as getting a feel for what the enterprise of philosophy is about The Philosophers' Magazine ,2003 Pathways Philosophy Shrader,1996

Theory and Research in Behavioral Pediatrics Hiram E. Fitzgerald, Barry M Lester, Michael W. Yogman, 2013-06-29 Volume I of Theory and Research in Behavioral Pediatrics focused on issues of early human development with special emphasis given to assessment of the preterm infant and to factors influencing the organization of the caregiver infant relationship Chapters in Volume 2 cover a broader range of topics and encompass a wider age span Chapter I provides a historical review of the relationship between developmental psychology and pediatrics The authors Barbara R Tinsley and Ross D Parke discuss differences between behavioral pediatrics and pediatric psychology and note that interdisciplinary collaboration in research and application has increased steadily in recent years However if similar collaborative efforts are to occur in education and training of pediatricians and developmental psychologists it will be necessary to determine just what each discipline hopes to gain from such collaborative efforts Tinsley and Parke report the results of a national survey designed to determine the areas of developmental psychology that pediatricians perceive to be of potential benefit to them in their delivery of pediatric care Results of the survey suggest that there are many ways in which developmental psychology could be incorporated into the pediatric curriculum In many respects Chapter 2 sets the stage for the remaining chapters Nancy A Carlson and Thomas Z Reason, Values and Conduct: Pathways Program E. Moral Philosophy Geoffrey Klempner,2019-01-07 Why should I be moral The view that it is in my self interest to consider the possible harm my actions might do to others encounters the objection that sometimes it can appear very much against our own interests to act morally The question that raises is whether a rational basis can be found for acting morally in cases where doing so does not coincide with self interest Many attempts have been made but most have foundered on a persistent logical gap between facts and values or between what is the case and what one ought to do We shall examine whether this gap can be bridged and the consequences either way for our ethical beliefs Pathways to Philosophy Douglas W. Searching for the Soul: Pathways Program B. Philosophy of Mind Geoffrey Klempner,2019-01-07 What is the relationship between mind and body We shall be investigating the background to Descartes argument in the Meditations for a dualism of mental and material substances based on the impossibility of doubting the existence of the I that says I think After subjecting Descartes argument to close scrutiny we shall examine specific questions arising from the dualist theory such as the interaction between soul and body and the idea of disembodied souls We shall then look at alternatives to mind body dualism including the theory that the mind is identical with the brain and follow up the consequences of the competing views for our conception of ourselves and our place in the world Zen Pathways Bret W.
