Sculpture and Film Jon Wood, Ian Christie, 2026-02-02 During much of the twentieth century film was often assumed to be a flat pictorial art more often compared with painting and graphic media than with sculpture In the last few decades however film has come to be more closely associated with sculpture and in recent years it has largely been through gallery installations not only that the sculptural aspect of film and video has been demonstrated but also the extent to which filmic representation enlarges our understanding of sculptural space This collection thus comprises the first rigorous exploration of the relationship between sculpture and film charted over ten essays The contributors explore some of the ways in which cinema reshaped the landscape of art and specifically sculpture and sculptural practice during the twentieth century They also examine how film has functioned as a sculptural medium at crucial moments in various stages of its evolution In this way it is a book about both sculpture and film and sculpture as film

Ethics of Contemporary Art Theo Reeves-Evison, 2020-11-26 What happens when the shock of artistic transgression wears off when scandal dissipates when outrage becomes a tired routine In this original new book Theo Reeves Evison argues that transgressive art no longer succeeds on its own terms in societies where language prohibition and morality have become increasingly malleable This compels us to rethink the relationship between contemporary art and ethics and focus our attention on the potential of artworks to propose new values rather than simply challenge pre existing moral codes Assembling a novel theoretical framework from the writings of Felix Guattari Jacques Lacan and others Ethics of Contemporary Art narrates a journey away from transgression towards a new critical paradigm for the relationship between ethics and aesthetics that places questions of subjectivity centre stage Along the way artworks by Kader Attia Artur Zmijewski Dora Garcia and others serve as springboards launching discussions of the varied pathways along which a renewed ethics of contemporary art might develop Why is that Art?
