Questions Of Competence Culture Classification And Intellectual Disability:

Questions of Competence Richard Jenkins, 1998 Intellectual disability ranging from what is more commonly described as mental retardation to learning difficulties is a socially constructed phenomenon that varies in important respects cross culturally This collection of original essays examines the classification of people as competent and incompetent in the United States England Wales Greece Greenland Uganda and Belize The contributors anthropologists and sociologists argue that it is time for a new understanding of intellectual disability In contrast to medical and psychological models a social model of intellectual disability emphasises the cultural and individual variability of incompetence the intimate relationship between cultural categories of competence and incompetence and the role of social interaction and networks in its social construction This book Is an original contribution to ongoing theoretical and policy debates about disability

Handbook of Developmental Disabilities Samuel L. Odom, Robert H. Horner, Martha E. Snell, 2009-01-21 This authoritative handbook reviews the breadth of current knowledge about developmental disabilities neuroscientific and genetic foundations the impact on health learning and behavior and effective educational and clinical practices Leading authorities analyze what works in intervening with diverse children and families from infancy through the school years and the transition to adulthood Chapters present established and emerging approaches to promoting communication and language abilities academic skills positive social relationships and vocational and independent living skills Current practices in positive behavior support are discussed as are strategies for supporting family adaptation and resilience

Steinforth, 2009 Every society has its own definition of a normal and an abnormal human condition For persons living with mental disorders these concepts have a tremendous impact This study investigates how the abnormal mind is culturally defined in Mala i South Eastern Africa Based on anthropological techniques such as interviews participant observation and archive research it explores the different social dimensions of mental disorder e g its reflection in traditional dance rituals in behavioural rules during pregnancy or in the healing ministry of independent churches It demonstrates how local explanations of mental disorder be it witchcraft an angry ancestor or the will of God determine the social acceptance of an affected person s condition Recent processes of cultural change however strengthen the pluralism of Mala ian religious landscape opening the local debate to an ever wider range of interpretations A Kind of Upside-Downness David Ford, Deborah Ford, Ian Randall, 2019-11-21 One of the great prophetic figures of our time was Jean Vanier founder of the L Arche communities where those with and without disabilities share life together This book tells the story of a new practical development inspired by Vanier and taking further both his thought and the practice of L Arche Lyn s House is a small Christian house of hospitality and friendship in Cambridge set in an open community of volunteers and supporters Its story told here contains moving accounts of its origins and development and of the friendships it enables The contributors all members of the wider Lyn s House community also reflect on its meaning and explore the implications for both church and society of this creative response to Vanier s call Not only does the book convey the spirit of Lyn s House and its transformative effects on those who participate in it it also offers inspiration and a practical guide to any who wish to begin something similar Disability & the Politics of Education Susan Lynn Gabel, Scot Danforth, 2008 Disability and the Politics of Education An International

Reader is a rich resource that deals comprehensively with the many aspects of the complex topic of disability studies in education For nearly two decades global attention has been given to education as a human right through global initiatives such as Education for All EFA and the Salamanca Statement Yet according to UNESCO reaching the goals of EFA remains one of the most daunting challenges facing the global community Today millions of the world s disabled children cannot obtain a basic childhood education particularly in countries with limited resources Even in the wealthiest countries many disabled children and youth are educationally segregated from the nondisabled particularly if they are labeled with significant cognitive impairment International agencies such as the United Nations and the World Bank have generated funds for educational development but unfortunately these funds are administered with the assumption that west is best thereby urging developing countries to mimic educational policies in the United States and the United Kingdom in order to prove their aid worthiness This McDonaldization of education reproduces the labeling resource allocation and social dynamics long criticized in disability studies The authors in this volume explore these subjects and other complexities of disability and the politics of education In doing so they demonstrate the importance and usefulness of international perspectives and comparative approaches
