

IMMUNOLOGY

2nd Edition

GENERAL INFORMATION - AN OVERVIEW

- The immune system is a defense mechanism of the body characterized by the recognition of threat in the protection of the body from microorganisms and other harmful substances
- The two main components are innate (nonspecific) immunity and adaptive (specific) immunity
- Innate immunity is a general natural defense against anything recognized as "foreign"
- It is present (in normal individuals) at all times and triggered as soon as the foreign agent presents itself
- Adaptive immunity is the response of lymphocytes to foreign substances (called antigens, from antibody generating) and includes development of immunological memory
- Adaptive immunity consists of two responses against foreign antigens: the humoral response (obtained by secretion of antibody by B cells) and the cell-mediated response (which involves the attacking and killing of infected somatic cells directly by T cells)

INNATE (NONSPECIFIC) IMMUNITY

- Innate immunity has several main protective mechanisms that function without prior exposure to a harmful agent
- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| Antimicrobial Substances | Such as interferon (inhibits viral replication) and complement proteins (destroy bacterial destruction and other effects of inflammation) |
| Fever | Produced by endogenous pyrogen secreted by leukocytes and other cells, and serves to intensify the action of interferon, inhibit microbial growth, and enhance tissue repair |
| Cytolytic Acid | Destroys swallowed invaders |
| Inflammatory Response | Mobilizes leukocytes to phagocytose invaders |
| Intact Skin | Prevents attachment of potential invaders |
| Mucosa | Traps bacteria and other foreign matter |
| Natural Killer Cells | Destroy a variety of microbes and certain tumor cells through direct contact |

THE CELLS

Dendritic Cells	Antigen Presenting Cells (APCs) found in T cell area of lymphoid tissue • Particularly important for initiation of the adaptive immune response
Macrophages	Phagocytic cells derived from blood monocytes • Contain lysosomes • Act as APCs, secrete lymphokines of specific foreign antigens by displaying pieces of partially digested antigen on their surface • Express MHC I and MHC II molecules
B Cells	Lymphocytes that mature in the bone marrow and play a key role in humoral immunity • After being presented with a foreign antigen, the B cell differentiates into either antibody-secreting plasma cells or memory B cells to be activated when the same antigen is encountered again (secondary immune response)
Plasma Cells	Cells that differentiate from B cells and secrete large amounts of antibodies (up to 2000 per second) • All cells in a clone of plasma cells secrete identical antibodies because they are descended from the same B cell
T Cells	Lymphocytes which mature in the thymus and act in humoral and cell-mediated immunity • After being presented with a foreign antigen, T cells differentiate into effector cells that are able to destroy infected cells or activate other cells of the immune system

CD4 T-cells

Bear the CD4 marker and respond to MHC II molecules • They are helper T_H1 cells (cell-mediated) T cells that activate infected macrophages to destroy intracellular pathogens and T_H2 cells (help T cells) • They stimulate B cells of the same antigenic specificity to differentiate into antibody-secreting plasma cells or memory B cells

Cytotoxic T-cells

Bear the CD8 marker and respond to MHC I molecules • Kill infected cells either by releasing perforin (a protein that punches holes in "targeted cells" membranes) or binding to a receptor on the "targeted cell" to initiate apoptosis (cell suicide) • Important in defense against cytotoxic pathogens

Memory T-cells

T cells that are produced but not used in a first immune response • They "remember" and are ready to respond to subsequent attacks by substances of the same type of invader

Suppressor T-cells

Suppress the activity of other T cells that are capable of causing tissue damage
