Instructions for Creating Web Pages with Netscape Composer Diane Dates Casey, 1999 Directions on how to use the HTML editor in Netscape Communicator software to create basic web pages

Sams Teach Yourself to Create Web Pages in 24 Hours Ned Snell, 1999 Titles text and tables Linking to stuff Adding Pizzazz with multimedia Fine tuning your page Getting it online

Creating Web Pages For Dummies Bud E. Smith, Arthur Bebak, 2000-07-28 The Web is the most sophisticated most open and simplest publishing medium ever created an endless set of criss crossing interconnections between an ever growing number of points and a community in the truest sense of the word Your Web page can be your platform to say or show whatever you want to the millions of people with access to the global Internet You can talk about yourself or your business You can publish a short story or a collection of jokes You can show pictures of your dog or of your company's latest product Your own imagination is the only limit to what you can put on the Web If you've used the Web before and you're now ready to step out into the big wide online world with your own page

Creating Web Pages For Dummies 6th Edition is the place where you can nudge your wishes into reality Without any previous experience or painful technical instructions you can get on track to Tackling just enough HTML to format with the best of em Incorporating graphics sound and video into your pages Providing links to other sites Putting to good use Web publishing tools that can relieve your workload Designing and delivering pages that people will want to revisit Informative educational and just plain fun Creating Web Pages For Dummies 6th Edition covers Web page topics from beginning through intermediate levels including how to Put together a Web publishing plan Use half a dozen different tools Publish a Web page via Web based services and the major online services Expand your page to a full Web site Add interactive features and invite feedback Keep your page current and in good working order The revised and updated content in this edition also features the latest on building AOL and GeoCities pages plus insight into adding the multimedia features that's amaze your visitors The book includes a CD ROM that's loaded with a variety of PC and Macintosh programs and demos all the more for smooth sailing into having your own place on the Web

Easy Web Design Engr Michael David, 2020-12-05 WHY SEAMONKEY SeaMonkey Composer is a powerful web page editor It allows you to easily create web pages and it allows you to easily switch between different modes of editing as your needs advance If you never want to see any HTML tags you can edit all of your pages in Preview If you want to occasionally switch to seeing only your HTML tags you can quickly switch to HTML Source or to HTML Tag view make your change and then return to the familiar Preview or Edit views It is also free You can download it from <http://www.seamonkey-project.org> You'll probably want a fast connection This tutorial is designed around Netscape Composer I have not yet updated it for SeaMonkey However a cursory look indicates that the software hasn't changed much The screenshots that I had to recreate because I couldn't find the old ones are almost the same and the basic concepts should be similar in any web page editor You can always switch from one good web editor to another good editor Almost all web page editors and all good web page editors use HTML or HyperText Markup Language This means that you can use one web page editor now and later decide to switch to another editor without losing any work It's all HTML and they can all read each other's work Why Not Netscape Netscape has come a long way but it still has some problems that might make it less useful for you Line Break Love Affair Netscape's love affair with the line break is somewhat annoying if you don't edit your HTML directly and very annoying if you do The default unit of sentences in a web page should be paragraphs but Netscape appears stuck in a seventies line editing time warp When you press return on your keyboard you don't get a new paragraph you just break the line in the current set of text What looks like a paragraph to you does not look like a paragraph to web browsers or other automated web page tools Even when you switch a line to a paragraph using the style menu the line break remains stuck on the end of your paragraph like a useless appendix In SeaMonkey you may be able to fix this by checking Return in a paragraph always creates a new paragraph Insecure File Uploads Netscape does not support secure file uploads It uses the old FTP instead of secure FTP or secure copy This means that every time you upload a file to your web site your password is sent over the net in plain text Dynamic Web Code Netscape throws out certain kinds of dynamic web code If you use PHP or ASP for example Netscape completely throws out the dynamic portions of your web site Indentation Netscape does not support any automatic indentation tools You probably don't care about this if you don't edit HTML but if you do edit your HTML directly this makes it difficult to maintain readable HTML All you can use for indentation are spaces and you need to indent every single line individually
