Plant Genetic Resources Of Ethiopia:

Plant Genetic Resources of Ethiopia Jan Engels, J. G. Hawkes, M. Worede, 1991-03-21 One of the world centers of crop evolution and origin Ethiopia has long been recognized as an important area of diversity for several major and various minor crops Based on an international conference held in Addis Ababa this book describes how plant genetic diversity in Ethiopia is of vital importance in breeding new varieties of crops with desirable characteristics such as increased resistance to pests and diseases and greater adaptation to heat and drought The three main sections in the book consider the Ethiopian center of diversity germ plasm or genetic material collection and conservation in Ethiopia and the evaluation and utilization of Ethiopian genetic resources A broad range of food and feed crops and plants of medicinal and industrial importance are discussed both at a national and international level A brief account of conservation strategies and gene bank problems unique to Ethiopia is also given The importance of Ethiopia's plant genetic resources to world agriculture has been demonstrated on more than one occasion Plant breeders geneticists and botanists throughout the world will therefore find this unique book a valuable source of information and an essential reference work

The Gene Hunters Calestous Juma, 2014-07-14 The world is on the verge of receiving new life forms that will profoundly and irrevocably change the global economy the gene hunters who first cloned the gene in 1973 are now not only modifying existing species but also creating new plants and animals Ready or not for such awesome power the human race has put itself in a position to govern evolution What will we do with the abilities we now command asks this broad and stimulating book on the role of plant material in economic development Writing in a style that is easily understandable even to those with no background in biotechnology Calestous Juma begins by showing how the importation of plants strengthened the British Empire and brought the United States to global agricultural superiority He goes on to explore the current international competition for genetic material and the potential impact of biotechnology on the relationship of the developed and developing world Juma points out that biotechnology poses real dangers to the third world Often one of the few exportable resources that a developing country possesses is an unusual or rare crop but biotechnological techniques make possible the cultivation of many such crops outside their natural habitats potentially eliminating the need to import the crops from the countries in which they grow indigenously After discussing the threat of biotechnology Juma comes full circle and points out that it does not have to be a threat Actually tremendous benefits could accrue to the third world from biotechnology if and only if that new technology is adapted to its needs Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Ex Situ Conservation of Plant Genetic Resources J. G. Hawkes,Nigel Maxted,B.V. Ford-Lloyd,2000-10-31 It is a distressing truism that the human race during the last millennium has caused the exponential loss of plant genetic diversity throughout the world This has had direct and negative economic political and social consequences for the human race which at the same time has failed to exploit fully the positive benefits that might result from conserving and exploiting the world s plant genetic resources However a strong movement to halt this loss of plant diversity and enhance its utilisation for the benefit of all humanity has been underway since the 1960 s Frankel and Bennett 1970 Frankel and Hawkes 1975 This initiative was taken up by the Convention on Biological Diversity CBD 1992 that not only expounds the need to conserve biological diversity but links conservation to exploitation and development for the benefit of all Article 8 of the Convention clearly states the need to develop more effective and efficient guidelines to conserve biological diversity while Article 9 along with the FAO International Undertaking on Plant Genetic Resources promotes the adoption of a complementary approach to conservation that incorporates both ex situ and in situ techniques Niger Guizotia Abyssinica (L.f.)
