

Report writing: Formal

There are many different types of reports. This information is a basic outline only. Before you attempt to write a report, you should check the particular requirements for the subject.

A formal report should have the following arrangement.

1. TITLE PAGE — The Title Page must include the subject of the report, who the report is for, who the report is by and the date of submission.

2. ABSTRACT — An Abstract is usually 100 to 200 words and should include the following:

- why the report has been written (i.e. what question or problem is it addressing?)
- how the study was undertaken
- what the main findings were
- what the significance of the findings is.

Be specific and precise so that the reader can get a good understanding of the main points without having to read the whole report.

The abstract should be on a separate page with the centred heading ABSTRACT in capitals. It is usually written in a single paragraph with no indentation.

3. TABLE OF CONTENTS — The Table of Contents should be on a separate page. It helps the reader to find specific information and indicates how the information has been organised and what topics are covered. The table of contents should also include a list of figures and a list of tables if any are used in the report.

4. INTRODUCTION — The Introduction has three main components.

1. The Background which describes events leading up to the existing situation, what projects have been done previously, and why the project or study is necessary.
2. The Purpose which defines what the project or study is to achieve, who authorised it and the specific terms of reference.
3. The Scope which outlines any limitations imposed on the project such as cost, time etc.

5. BODY — The Body varies according to the type of report. Basically, it answers the questions — Who? Why? Where? When? What? How? In an investigative report, it would consist of all the information required to convince the reader that the conclusions and recommendations are valid/reliable. This information must be presented in a systematic way.

6. CONCLUSION — The Conclusion should be as brief as possible. They should be presented in descending order of importance and should not suggest action. Conclusions should be free from speculation (i.e. ideas for which you have presented no evidence), have no new thoughts or references introduced and contain no further discussion of points raised.

7. RECOMMENDATIONS — The Recommendations should follow naturally from the conclusions. They should be offered in descending order of importance and may be in point form when several recommendations are being made.

8. REFERENCES — The list of References is an accurate listing, in strict alphabetical order, of all the sources referred to.

The Oxford Handbook of Personality and Psychopathology

Assessment Joni L. Mihura, 2025 In this second edition of the Oxford Handbook of Personality Assessment now titled The Oxford Handbook of Personality and Psychopathology Assessment Joni L. Mihura brings together a respected group of international contributors to cover significant changes within the field of personality assessment The Handbook is updated to cover a range of topics focusing on four major goals to integrate contemporary dimensional models of personality and psychopathology to use a multimethod approach in which the method of assessment shapes the desired construct to integrate collaborative therapeutic assessment C TA when possible and to consider personality and psychopathology assessment through the lens of human diversity

Clinical Assessment of Child and Adolescent Personality and Behavior Paul J. Frick, Christopher T. Barry, Randy W. Kamphaus, 2009-12-12 Psychologists offer an increasing variety of services to the public Among these services psychological assessment of personality and behavior continues to be a central activity One main reason is that other mental health professionals often do not possess a high level of competence in this area And when dealing with children and adolescents psychological assessment seems to take on an even greater role Therefore it follows that comprehensive graduate level instruction in assessment should be a high priority for educators of psychologists who will work with these youth This textbook is organized into three sections consistent with the authors approach to teaching Part I provides students with the psychological knowledge base necessary for modern assessment practice including historical perspectives measurement science child psychopathology ethical legal and cultural issues and the basics of beginning the assessment process Part II gives students a broad review of the specific assessment methods used by psychologists accompanied by specific advice regarding the usage and strengths and weaknesses of each method In Part III we help students perform some of the most sophisticated of assessment practices integrating and communicating assessment results and infusing assessment practice with knowledge of child development and psychopathology to assess some of the most common types of behavioral and emotional disorders in youth A text focusing on assessment practices must be updated every four to six years to keep pace with advances in test development For example several of the major tests reviewed in the text such as the Behavioral Assessment System for Children and the Child Behavior Checklist have undergone major revisions since the publication of the last edition making the current content outdated Further another major test the Conners Rating

Scales is undergoing substantial revisions that should be completed before publication of the next edition. Finally the evidence for the validity of the tests and the recommendations for their appropriate use evolve as research accumulates and requires frequent updating to remain current. For example there was a special issue of the Journal of Clinical Child and Adolescent Psychology published focusing on evidenced based assessment of the major forms of childhood psychopathology that will need to be integrated into the chapters in Part 3. This latter point reflects an important trend in the field that should influence the marketing of the book. That is there are several initiatives being started in all of the major areas of applied psychology e.g. school clinical and counseling to promote evidenced based assessment practices. These initiatives have all emphasized the need to enhance the training of graduate students in this approach to assessment. This has been the orientation of this textbook from its first edition that is Clinical Assessment of Child and Adolescent Personality and Behavior has focused on using research to guide all recommendations for practice. The ability of the textbook to meet this training need should be an important focus of marketing the book to training programs across all areas of applied psychology.

Report Writing for Business Raymond Vincent Lesikar, 1981 General Report for the Year ... Great Britain. Education Dept. Eastern Division, 1891

For the Record Kären M. Hess, Innovative Systems Publishers, Christine Hess Orthmann, 2008-01-01 This manual offers guidelines for writing at all levels of law enforcement. It teaches and give practice using guidelines for producing professional reports that reflect positively on the writer. It is designed to be equally effective for individual study by working law enforcement officers or for course work by police science students. It presents the general features of law enforcement reports and the steps in producing them. Also covered are principles of clear writing, grammar, spelling and punctuation. Although the manual focuses on investigative reports the principles of effective writing apply to any written work.
