Creativity and Common Sense

Thomas Krettek, 1987-01-01 Paul Weiss is one of the two or three most original and creative philosophers and metaphysicians in America today Creativity and Common Sense reveals why It contains fourteen recent articles on the thought of Paul Weiss by authors who are most familiar with his writings including an essay by Charles Hartshorne that provides a unique perspective on Weiss by one who has known him for his entire career Weiss is shown to be one of the very few contemporary philosophers who examines every area of concern to philosophy and does so on the basis of ontological insights regarding the ultimate elements of reality He begins his philosophical consideration with the evidences offered by the world of common sense and seeks to provide an adequate and comprehensive account of what he finds there The contributors to this collection present and examine many of Weiss strategic insights They help clarify key elements in his thought and thereby contribute to an appreciation and understanding of his work They also make evident the importance of Weiss insights for resolving vexing questions in such diverse areas as the philosophy of science philosophical methodology ethics aesthetics the philosophy of the human person and the philosophy of language This collection makes a significant contribution to the development of Weissian scholarship and to the growing appreciation of the significance of his thought for the discussions of contemporary philosophy

The Garden as an Art Mara Miller, 1993-07-01 In this book Miller challenges contemporary aesthetic theory to include gardens in an expanded definition of art She provides a radical critique of three central tenets within current intellectual debate first the art historical notion that art should only be studied within the context of a single culture and period second the philosophical belief that art should be conceived as a discrete object unrelated to our survival as persons as cultural communities as a species and third the notion that all signifying systems are like language

Commission to study conditions relating to the healing art, 1927 Privacy Paul Weiss, 1983 Privacy advances and refines Professor Weiss's philosophic quest to isolate unmistakable evidences of that which is ultimately real and to trace those evidences to their original sources The quest began with the publication of Beyond All Appearances 1974 was expanded and refined into a more defensible formula tion by First Considerations 1977 and developed to provide a corresponding precise and systematic treatment of man as apart from and to oppose and interplay with those final realities in You I and the Others 1980 This new work continues his venture as he seeks to isolate evidences of human privacy in the body and the world to understand what then becomes knowable and to explore the result Weiss demonstrates the inutility of a reductionist methodology when searching for the ultimately real in human beings stressing that a soundly based nonreductionist method for learning about humanity is built upon the supposition that each person has sure self knowledge acquired through observation or introspection By attending to what all people including oneself publicly show themselves to be it becomes possible to extricate evidence of powers present in anyone and thus to learn about the true nature of human privacy He writes To be acquainted with the one is already to be in contact with the other and in a position to make an intensive convergent insistent further move into the sources as not yet expressed Weiss begins his study with an examination of evidences of the human person and particularly of its most primitive persistent epitomization sensitivity He goes on to examine more and more advanced epitomizations arriving at and passing beyond the stage where a self comes to be with its epitomizing assumed accountability responsibility and I
