work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Personality Structure and Human Interaction Harry Guntrip, 2018 How has a theory of man as a social being to be formulated if we are to do justice to his individuality to the subtle ways in which his love and hate compete within his relations with others and to the anxieties and resistances he shows when he seeks to change himself To answer this question is the task which the author sets himself After assessing Freud's basic principles Guntrip proceeds to make a uniquely comprehensive review of subsequent theoretical contributions to psychoanalysis with special emphasis on the work of Fairbairn and Melanie Klein From a background of philosophy theology and social studies Dr Guntrip went on to take a personal psychoanalysis and to become a full time psychotherapist and it is from this combination of wide knowledge and intensive work with people beset by conflicts in their relations with themselves and others that he evolves his views After assessing Freud's basic principles he proceeds to make a uniquely comprehensive review of subsequent theoretical contributions to psychoanalysis with special emphasis on the work of Fairbairn and Melanie Klein as it is in their writings that he considers the most needed developments have been made namely the placing of the theory of personality squarely in the realm of human interaction In the first part of Dr Guntrip's book all students of personality will find an arresting survey of the development of psychoanalytic thought in the latter they will meet highly stimulating and profound views on the origins and nature of the conflicting forces in human relationships In particular he traces the progress of research beyond the problems of guilt and depression to the deeper and graver problems of the inadequate and Schizoid personality thus finding the causes of mental ill health not in the secondary conflicts over sex and aggression but in the primary problem of fear and the struggle to cope with the frightened and helpless child in the depths of the unconscious Provided by publisher

Personality Structure and Human Interaction Harry Guntrip, 1995 How has a theory of man as a social being to be formulated if we are to do justice to his individuality to the subtle ways in which his love and hate compete within his relations with others and to the anxieties and resistances he shows when he seeks to change himself To answer this question is the task which the author sets himself After assessing Freud's basic principles the author proceeds to make a uniquely comprehensive review of subsequent theoretical contributions to psychoanalysis with special emphasis on the work of Fairbairn and Melanie Klein From a background of philosophy theology and social studies the author went on to take a personal psychoanalysis and to become a full time psychotherapist and it is from this combination of wide knowledge and intensive work with people beset by conflicts in their relations with themselves and others that he evolves his views
