"The highest compliment I can pay a writer is to say that his or her work is Old-fashioned—which is to say that his or her work is good enough to be in competition. . . . This is a rare book."
—Annette Frenn, author of Before the Day After Tomorrow

"You know to recognize the most extraordinary descriptions of love, love, love. Amy Bloom makes you feel what it is like to be in love and know you have no choice but to be in love. She writes about love and desire with more elegant power than any one I know. . . . This novel is marvelous."
—Quentin Crisp, author of Behind the Veil of Love

"Amy Bloom is revealing the reader in a magical dream—by words, by images, by metaphors, by the very act of writing and reading. There is an uncharted landscape where we see the truth which we desire but have abandoned. Amy Bloom writes like a poet."
—Evan Esquire, author of The Prophet of Love

"Amy Bloom writes about love in a way that is pure and polished and unpretentious. . . . Her work is so good that, in writing about a woman who has done something I have done, I felt I was reading about myself. Bloom knows every conceivable love and she has mastered the wrong love, with the wrong person, and she has mastered, with every imaginable love, the right love."
—Percy Bysshe Shelley, author of Franklin's Daughter
