Roving Editor Don Wharton,1939      The Roving Editor, Or, Talks with Slaves in the Southern States James Redpath,1996 While a reporter at Horace Greeley's New York Tribune in the 1850s James Redpath developed a strong curiosity about slavery and decided that he would travel south to see slavery with my own eyes Redpath interviewed slaves recorded their opinions and recounted them in the form of letters which he then published in antislavery newspapers under the pseudonym John Ball Jr Redpath later collected these letters into book form publishing them in 1859 as The Roving Editor This new edition reproduces the text of The Roving Editor together with important supplemental documents and extensive editorial apparatus

The Roving Editor James Redpath,2015-07-19 Excerpt from The Roving Editor Or Talks With Slaves in the Southern States To Captain John Brown Senior of Kansas To you Old Hero I dedicate this record of my Talks with the Slaves in the Southern States To you is due our homage for first showing how and how alone the gigantic crime of our age and nation can be effectually blotted out from our soil forever You have proven that the slaver has a soul as cowardly as his own domestic institution you have shown how contemptible he is as a foe before the rifle of the earnest freeman With your sword of the Lord and of Gideon you met him face to face with a few ill clad and ill armed footmen you routed his well mounted and well armed hosts I admire you for your dauntless bravery on the field but more for your religious integrity of character and resolute energy of anti slavery zeal Rifle in hand you put the brave young men of Kansas to shame truth in heart you rendered insignificant the puerile programmes of anti slavery politicians You have no confidence in any man plan or party that ignores moral principle as the soul of its action You well know that an Organized Iniquity can never be destroyed by any programme of action which overlooks the fact that it is a crime and is therefore to be eradicated without compromise commiseration or delay This also is my belief About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
