Regulating The Changing Media A Comparative Study:

Regulating the Changing Media David Goldberg, Tony Prosser, Stefaan G. Verhulst, 1998 This new work on media regulation analyses and compares developments and trends across both the telecommunications and the broadcasting sectors in several different states Using national reports based on a common template to ensure comparable data the book examines the ability of the law and other regulatory techniques to influence such a rapidly changing area It exposes clearly the regulatory choices that are being made to control the so called new media including the internet as well as examining the methods used to govern the more conventional media The general move in the media to replace industry specific regulations with competition law and the extent to which self regulation is increasingly employed by the various industries and how this is underpinned by statutory support is discussed in depth The book looks at the regulatory systems in force in a whole range of countries from members of the European Union to Australia and the US and Eastern Europe The roles of the various European Institutions in media regulation are also examined States approaches to a wide variety of matters are looked at from recent copyright developments to privacy and election laws The problems and success of these various alternative approaches are then analysed

Codifying Cyberspace Damian Tambini, Danilo Leonardi, Christopher T. Marsden, 2008 Can the Internet regulate itself Faced with a range of harms and conflicts associated with the new media from gambling to pornography many governments have resisted the temptation to regulate opting instead to encourage media providers to develop codes of conduct and technical measures to regulate themselves Codifying Cyberspace looks at media self regulation in practice in a variety of countries It also examines the problems of balancing private censorship against fundamental rights to freedom of expression and privacy for media users This book is the first full scale study of self regulation and codes of conduct in these fast moving new media sectors and is the result of a three year Oxford University study funded by the European Commission

Europe's Digital Revolution David Levy, 2003-09-02 Europe s Digital Revolution assesses the impact of digital broadcasting on regulatory practices in Europe The current roles and responsibilities of nation states and the EU will have to respond to rapid technological and market developments Levy considers how these responsibilities are likely to be divided in the future and which are the emerging issues and problems

Internationalizing Media Studies Daya Kishan Thussu, 2009-05-15 This collection of essays by leading scholars from around the world aims to stimulate a debate about the imperatives for internationalizing media studies and provides much needed material on the dynamics of the media studies field in a global context Lively and current case studies are included within the essays to exemplify the main arguments

Media Pluralism and European Law Ewa Komorek, 2012-12-01 Although there appears to be no firm legal basis in the Treaties for EU legislative action aimed specifically at protecting media pluralism this book opens a number of promising avenues along which a viable legal regime protecting media pluralism may be achieved in the EU With particular focus on broadcasting the book examines existing albeit fragmented legislative and regulatory measures in competition law and other areas that contribute to this goal and sets forth ways to strengthen monitoring and transparency generate soft law with hard statements introduce a pluralism test in the EU Merger Regulation promote more public service media and foster media literacy Among many other issues arising in the course of the discussion the author describes and elucidates the following various types of integration of media companies and the different ways they affect pluralism and diversity limitations of must carry rules and principles of interoperability the diverging priorities of different European organizations institutions and bodies and contradictory lobbying efforts from industry actors The author places herself on the culture side of the culture commodity dilemma showing why it is vital for regulators to preserve media pluralism by counteracting excessive media concentration and safeguarding quality and diversity of content In this era which is transforming media and communications industries worldwide with an ever increasing plethora of delivery means without respect to national borders this book is an essential resource for regulators and other concerned policymakers as well as for lawyers working with any aspect of media

Regulating Audiovisual Services Thomas Gibbons, 2023-07-14 In recent years the changing nature of audiovisual services has had a significant impact on regulatory policy and practice The adoption of digital technology means that broadcasting cable satellite the Internet and mobile telephony are converging enabling each of them to deliver the same kinds of content and allowing users to exercise much greater choice over the kind of material that they receive and when they receive it The essays examine the implications for regulatory design asking whether there is still a role for traditional style state controls or whether other techniques such as competition in the market and self regulation are more appropriate They also explore how in the digital era structural issues of media ownership and control become problems of access and interconnection between services and how content regulation focuses more on problems raised by the interactions between providers and users the relationship between freedom of information and technologies to control it and the international reach of the new media

The Politics and Regulation of Digital TV in the U.S. and the European Union Hernan Galperin, 2000

Trends in Communication Policy Research Manuel Puppis, Natascha Just, 2012 With contributions from leading international experts from within both the communications industry and academia Trends in Communication Policy Research comprises the very latest developments in the theories methods and practical applications of this dynamic field Topical and politically relevant this authoritative and up to date volume will prove an invaluable reference for students and scholars seeking to understand communication policy issues

Media Freedom Under the Human Rights Act Helen Fenwick, Gavin Phillipson, 2006 Media Freedom under the Human Rights Act provides the most comprehensive analysis to date of the impact of Article 10 ECHR as received through the Human Rights Act 1998 on the substantive law governing freedom of expression in the media Fully up to date the book provides extensive coverage of crucial recent developments in this field these include the key cases of Ashworth and Punch in the area of contempt the ground breaking privacy decisions in Von Hannover v Germany and Campbell v MGN full consideration of theoretical approaches to explicit speech and blasphemy including a detailed critique of Strasbourg case law in the area detailed discussion of the new offence of incitement to religious hatred the new scheme for content regulation of broadcasting under the Communications Act 2003 in the light of Prolife Alliance a full survey of recent domestic and Strasbourg caselaw in the areas of copyright and political defamation and analysis of the early impact of the Freedom of Information Act The authors both leading academics in the field have drawn on significant comparative decisions to formulate a coherent and provocative critique of the relationship between media law and freedom of expression and suggested principles which make a significant contribution to the legal discourse surrounding media freedom in the Human Rights Act era The result is a book which provides a scholarly and theoretically informed analysis of this very topical subject of interest to those studying at all levels and practising in this area of law

Print Media and Broadcast Journalism Cameron Keith,2018-06-29 Broadcast Journalism is increasingly attracting young men and women who take up the subject for intensive study in schools of journalism in the universities and in institutions of mass communication In fact media are concerned with various forms into which the message is placed written and oral as used for transmitting messages This book presents a vivid account of the art of mass media and journalism Certainly this will prove an ideal handbook for learners aspirants and working journalists Modern mass media journalism has reached the state of electronic age All latest developments are categorically described in this book Today media related programmers departments schools and colleges go by such names as journalism journalism and mass communication mass media media studies communications communication and mass media and a variety of other names The book is written in a simple style and makes it easy for both the fresh entrant and the practitioner of the craft to understand what the author propounds It covers all aspects of newswriting for the broadcast media and emphasises the need to understand the point of the audience
