Middle Paleolithic Adaptation Behavior And Variability:

The Middle Paleolithic Harold L. Dibble, Paul Mellars, 2003-01-14 Papers originally presented at a symposium on the Middle Paleolithic of Europe and the Near East organized as part of the annual meeting of the Society for American Archaeology in the spring of 1989 Paleolithic archaeology has entered a period in which new interpretations based on new finds and revised ideas concerning previously known material are competing with traditional interpretations There is an urgent need for continued dialogue among Paleolithic scholars exemplified by these papers High Resolution

Archaeology and Neanderthal Behavior Eudald Carbonell i Roura, 2012-03-15 The aim of this book is to provide a new insight on Neanderthal behaviour using the data recovered in level J of Roman rockshelter north eastern Spain Due to the sedimentary dynamics that formed the Roman deposit the occupation layers are characterized by a high temporal resolution which makes it easier to interpret the archaeological data in behavioural terms In addition the different analytical domains geoarchaeology lithic technology zooarchaeology taphonomy anthracology palaeontology are addressed from a spatial perspective that is basic to understand human behaviour but also to evaluate the behavioural inferences in the framework of the archaeological formation processes Updating Neanderthals Francesca Romagnoli, Florent Rivals, Stefano

Benazzi, 2022-06-28 Updating Neanderthals Understanding Behavioral Complexity in the Late Middle Paleolithic provides comprehensive knowledge on Neanderthals who lived throughout the European and Asian continents The book synthesizes historical information about the study of Middle Paleolithic populations and presents current debates about their genetics subsistence technology social and cognitive behaviors It focuses on the last phase of Neanderthal settlements and presents the main patterns of modern humans across Europe Written by international experts on the Middle Paleolithic who have conducted innovative studies in the last three decades this book explores the implications of interactions between different human species including Neanderthals Denisovans and Sapiens In addition the book discusses the diversity and variability of human adaptations and behaviors in the changing climate and environment of the Late Pleistocene and the relationship between these behaviors demography and cognitive capabilities Offers a comprehensive update on the variability and diversity of Neanderthal behaviors during the Late Pleistocene Presents an interdisciplinary reconstruction of Neanderthals by assessing archaeology paleontology paleoecology anthropology genetics and cognition Reviews the reliability of archaeological data and the theoretical and methodological advances of the last 30 years Discusses the most debated Neanderthal themes such as demography diet socio economy and art Origins of Anatomically Modern Humans Doris V.

Nitecki, Matthew H. Nitecki, 2013-11-11 This volume is based on the Field Museum of Natural History Spring Systematics Symposium held in Chicago on May 11 1991 The financial support of Ray and Jean Auel and of the Field Museum is gratefully acknowledged When we teach or write we present only those elements that support our arguments We avoid all weak points of our debate and all the uncertainties of our models Thus we offer hypotheses as facts Multiauthored books like ours which simultaneously advocate and question diverse views avoid the pitfalls and lessen the impact of indoctrination In this volume we analyze the anthropological and biological disagreements and the positions taken on the origins of modern humans point out difficulties with the interpretations and suggest that the concept of the human origin can be explained only when we first attempt to define Homo sapiens sapiens One of the major controversies in physical anthropology concerns the geographic origin of anatomically modern humans It is undisputed due to the extensive research of the Leakeys and their colleagues that the family Hominidae originated in Africa but the geographic origin of Homo sapiens sapiens is less concretely accepted Two schools of thought exist on this topic

The Neanderthal Legacy Paul A. Mellars, 2015-07-28 The Neanderthals populated western Europe from nearly 250 000 to 30 000 years ago when they disappeared from the archaeological record In turn populations of anatomically modern humans Homo sapiens came to dominate the area Seeking to understand the nature of this replacement which has become a hotly debated issue Paul Mellars brings together an unprecedented amount of information on the behavior of Neanderthals His comprehensive overview ranges from the evidence of tool manufacture and related patterns of lithic technology through the issues of subsistence and settlement patterns to the more controversial evidence for social organization cognition and intelligence Mellars argues that previous attempts to characterize Neanderthal behavior as either modern or ape like are both overstatements We can better comprehend the replacement of Neanderthals he maintains by concentrating on the social and demographic structure of Neanderthal populations and on their specific adaptations to the harsh ecological conditions of the last glaciation Mellars's approach to these issues is grounded firmly in his archaeological evidence He illustrates the implications of these findings by drawing from the methods of comparative socioecology primate studies and Pleistocene paleoecology The book provides a detailed review of the climatic and environmental background to Neanderthal occupation in Europe and of the currently topical issues of the behavioral and biological transition from Neanderthal to fully modern populations

Taxonomic Tapestries Alison M Behie, Marc F Oxenham, 2015-05-26 This volume explores the complexity diversity and interwoven nature of taxonomic pursuits within the context of explorations of humans and related species It also pays tribute to Professor Colin Groves whose work has had an enormous impact on this field Recent research into that somewhat unique species we call humankind through the theoretical and conceptual approaches afforded by the discipline of biological anthropology is showcased The focus is on the evolution of the human species the behaviour of primates and other species and how humans affect the distribution and abundance of other species through anthropogenic impact Weaving together these three key themes through the considerable influence of Colin Groves provides glimpses of how changes in taxonomic theory and methodology including our fluctuating understanding of speciation have recrafted the way in which we view animal behaviour human evolution and conservation studies

The Lithic Assemblages of Qafzeh Cave Erella Hovers, 2009-06-09 This book presents the first comprehensive

description of the lithic assemblages from Qafzeh Cave one of only two Middle Paleolithic sites in the Levant that has yielded multiple burials of early anatomically modern Homo sapiens AMHs The record from this region raises the question of possible long term temporal overlap between early AMHs and Neanderthals For this reason Qafzeh has long been one of the pivotal sites in debates on the origins of AMHs and in attempts to compare and contrast the two species adaptations and behavior Although the hominin fossils from the site were published years ago until now the associated archaeological assemblages were incompletely described often leading to conflicting interpretations This monograph includes a thorough technological analysis of the lithic assemblages incorporated in their geological and sedimentological contexts This description serves as a springboard for regional comparisons as well as a more general discussion about Middle Paleolithic behavior which is relevant to important and as yet unresolved questions on the origins of modern behavior patterns The volume includes a wide ranging and up to date bibliography that provides the middle range for discussing the ecological context and behavioral complexity of the Middle Paleolithic period and ends with some thought provoking conclusions about the dynamic human interactions that existed in the region during this time

Anthropology without Informants L. G. Freeman, 2009-05-31 L G Freeman is a major scholar of Old World Paleolithic prehistory and a self described behavioral paleoanthropologist Anthropology without Informants is a collection of previously published papers by this preeminent archaeologist representing a cross section of his contributions to Old World Paleolithic prehistory and archaeological theory A socio cultural anthropologist who became a behavioral paleoanthropologist late in his career Freeman took a unique approach employing statistical or mathematical techniques in his analysis of archaeological data All the papers in this collection blend theoretical statements with the archaeological facts they are intended to help the reader understand Although he taught at the University of Chicago for the span of his 40 year career Freeman is not well known among Anglophone scholars because his primary fieldwork and publishing occurred in Cantabrian Spain However he has been a major player in Paleolithic prehistory and this volume will introduce his work to more American Archaeologists This collection brings the work of an expert scholar to a broad audience and will be of interest to archaeologists their students and lay readers interested in the Paleolithic era

Becoming Loquens Bernard H. Bichakjian, 2000 Once declared an unworthy pursuit for learned linguists the study of language origins has recently become a matter of intensive respectable research The change is understandable because while the nineteenth century imaginative linguists could only speculate today's scientists can soberly investigate and present the hard data that could serve to outline the gradual evolution that led to the emergence and development of oral communication Tracing that process or rather contributing to that effort is the objective of this collection of articles and the collective endeavor of their authors who from their own specific vantage points primatology anthropology anatomy cognition neurology linguistics and sociology are presenting data and analyses that will help the reader to gain better insight and clearer understanding of how humans have developed that fascinating tool of ours language

The Use of Living Space in Prehistory European Association of Archaeologists. Meeting, 2004 Living space may be defined as the territory where a certain group lived and foraged throughout the time reflected in its social memory and which is comprehended by this group as the territorial unit necessary for survival regardless of its geographic boundaries This is the space that provided a base in which to live and which was influenced by its explorers and thus reflected in some way in their spiritual life ideology and specific notions of identity Taking into account the organizational peculiarities and activities of prehistoric populations it becomes possible to distinguish the territorial temporal and purposeful structuring of each separate group living space This volume of conference proceedings presents a set of case studies covering periods from the Late Mousterian to Early Sarmatian times which help to conceptualise this notion as an important instrument for researchers engaged in the comprehensive investigation and interpretation of prehistoric societies
