

HOW RED WINE IS MADE

WINE FOLLY

THE SCIENCE OF WINE

Harvest grapes

The vintage (harvest) starts in the second week of the month for France in November. Generally, harvesting red wine grapes happens in the second half of the vintage.

Prepare grapes

Stems and leaves get cut off and the berries are sorted. Berries are then crushed to add flavor. The result is a thick red wine pulp called 'must'. Must is then fermented with yeast. During fermentation, the yeast converts the sugars in the must into alcohol.

Clarification

Clarification or 'fining' helps to clear the wine by adding substances that remove particles. These substances are usually added after the fermentation process and are used to clarify the wine.

Press

After the fermentation process, the wine is pressed. The juice is then filtered and bottled. The remaining solids are usually discarded.

Fermentation

Wine is left to ferment in a barrel or tank. The yeast converts the sugars in the must into alcohol. The process is called fermentation.

Add yeast

Yeast is added to the must to start the fermentation process. The yeast converts the sugars in the must into alcohol. The process is called fermentation.

Bottling

Bottling is the final step in the wine-making process. The wine is bottled and sealed. The bottles are then stored in a cellar.

Malolactic

Malolactic fermentation is a process where malic acid is converted into lactic acid. This process is called malolactic fermentation. It is used to soften the wine and add complexity.

Aging

Wine is aged in barrels or tanks for several months to several years. The wine is then bottled and sold.

Blending

The wine is blended with other wines to create a specific flavor profile. The wine is then bottled and sold.

Bottle aging

Wine is aged in bottles for several years to improve its flavor. The wine is then bottled and sold.
