Men Working:

Men's Work and Male Lives John Goodwin, 2018-12-20 First published in 1999 this volume took part in the emerging sociological debate on gender in the workplace by studying men's work lives gender roles and psychological health through the gender lens Recent changes in the labour market not least the marked increase of women at work have been argued to have led to a crisis of masculinity and a re-evaluation of men's roles This book has four main aims to establish that there is a real absence of an empirical understanding of men in British gender based sociological research to explore men's recent experiences of the British labour market to explore how masculinity and work are linked and maintained by critically examining existing accounts of gender theory and feminism and finally to provide an empirical account of men's work and male lives via an analysis of existing data The male workers were identified in the National Child Development Study 1991 and compared with male full-time workers and similar groups of women in the same study Five areas of these men's lives were explored empirically characteristics of male workers in NCDS5 men's attitudes to work men and training experiences men and household work and finally men and mental ill health The book concludes that the nature of men's work needs to be reconsidered and that the nature of gender research particularly that relating to men needs to be expanded and made more explicit

Women's Work, Men's Cultures Sarah Rutherford, 2011-09-09 Corporate diversity programs often fail because of resistance in workplace culture The author sets out an approach to real change by analysing the role of organisational cultures in marginalising women workers Based on academic research case studies and interviews the author presents a new model for changing organisational culture

Men's Work in Preventing Violence Against Women Christie Cozad Neuger, James Newton Poling, 2014-02-25 Promote effective partnerships between men and women to end domestic violence Men's Work in Preventing Violence Against Women examines the experiences of 12 practicing counselors who call on their religious training to form partnerships between men and women that promote an end to domestic violence In both religious and secular settings the bulk of the work done to end violence against women is done by women survivors who have become activists and advocates who have been touched by the witness of survivors Motivating and educating men to share the everyday work of domestic violence shelters rape crisis counseling and abuse prevention is essential This book challenges traditional images of masculinity exploring effective and ineffective methods of helping men face their own sexism and change their behavior toward the goal of ending domestic violence Each contributor to Men's Work in Preventing Violence Against Women approached the concept of man woman partnerships working to end domestic violence and sexual assault with the following questions in mind In your experience and social world have you seen creative partnerships between men and women that made a difference Have you seen men in counseling struggle to change their views on gender in order to become reliable allies in the fight to end violence against women How can religion become a resource for men working to become allies with women What strategies can men use to help end violence against women Men's Work in Preventing
