Mentoring And Induction Programs That Support New Principals:

Mentoring and Induction Programs That Support New Principals Susan Villani, 2006 Dr Villani's comprehensive new book gives our profession especially those who are new to it a terrific boost. With clarity and great care Villani outlines the critical need for mentoring and induction programs for new school leaders. Using excellent examples she shows us the extremely difficult and varied situations principals face daily. Then she explores well-documented model programs from across the nation that serve as examples and inspiration for all school leaders. Dr Vincent L Ferrandino, Executive Director NAESP, Susan Villani's Mentoring Induction Programs that Support New Principals is a comprehensive compendium of ideas and models drawn from school systems, regional education agencies, states, professional associations, and universities. Villani makes a compelling case for the value of supporting beginning principals in new and more powerful ways. She describes how changing educational policies and escalating demands on the principalship have caused an increasing number of states and local districts to seek improved ways to support new principals early in their administrative careers. Most important, Villani provides guidance to readers in translating these ideas and models into new or stronger mentoring and induction programs for the next generation of school principals. Dr Dennis Sparks, Executive Director NSDC, "There is increasing evidence as to the significant role which principals play in reforming schools and in increasing student achievement. Principal induction and mentoring are key components of effective leadership development. This text provides an effective guide for organizations supporting the development of school principals." Dr Gerald N Tirozzi, Executive Director NASSP, "Make it possible for all new principals to realize their full potential. A well-prepared new principal is essential to the success of an entire school. So why is it one of the least supported positions in the building? In Mentoring and Induction Programs That Support New Principals, mentoring expert Susan Villani addresses the key question of how well new principals are prepared and supported. This is an ideal resource for developing a mentoring or induction program for principals or for enhancing your existing program. This innovative new text offers a close examination of the state of principalship and the needs of new principals, as well as a detailed compilation of principal mentoring and induction programs throughout the United States. This useful hands-on guidebook includes: A complete understanding of the challenges facing new principals; Practical examples and enlightening vignettes to clearly illustrate challenges often faced by novice principals; Detailed tips to encourage and foster new principals; A clear, easy-to-understand comparison of model mentoring and induction programs. Mentoring Programs for New Teachers Susan Villani, 2002 Foreword by Charlotte Danielson. All the information administrators and teacher leaders need to get started on the right mentoring model. The value of mentoring programs for teacher training and retention is widely recognized, but which program should you choose for your school or LEA's unique mix of teachers and goals? And how should you begin? Mentoring expert Susan Villani offers a number of ways in which schools, teacher associations, institutions of higher education, educational collaboratives, and state departments of education can support teachers with the right mentoring program at the right time Topics include Inducting new teachers Continuing professional development programme design District funded programmes Peer Assistance and Review programmes State funded programmes Grant and alternative funded programs all presented in a straightforward and accessible style Mentoring Programs for New Teachers is a great first step in establishing a mentoring program that will affect hiring orientation teacher effectiveness and staff morale for the better Comprehensive Mentoring Programs for New Teachers Susan Villani,2009-06-17 This updated edition presents 18 successful real world programs 5 factors for developing a comprehensive mentoring initiative and new material for mentoring special education math and science teachers Leading the Teacher Induction and Mentoring Program Barry W. these initiatives and their impact on the school systems It demonstrates how these models can be implemented to help recruit and retain individuals interested in becoming teachers or school principals Covering topics such as school university partnerships leadership pipelines and teacher diversity this book is an excellent resource for school principals administrators educators human resource managers business owners researchers academicians and more Leadership through Mentoring Phyllis A. Gimbel, Peter Gow, 2021-07-10 Leadership Through Mentoring The Key to Improving the Principals Confidence and Skill lays out the case for the development of robust mentorship programs to support new school leaders With principal turnover at an all time high it is urgent that schools and districts find ways to help newly appointed leaders grow into effective supervisors managers and strategic thinkers who can also find personal and professional satisfaction in their careers Using examples from several established and successful state programs Leadership Through Mentoring shows how new school leaders effectiveness vision and engagement can be grown through intentionally designed and executed programs that offer supportive guidance and wise counsel from experienced leaders Thoughtfully created and appropriately resourced such programs can pave the way to longer and more successful principal tenures which research shows lead directly to significant improvements in schools cultures educational efficacy and teacher and student performance This is a book for leaders and governing bodies in all kinds of schools Teacher Mentoring and Induction Hal Portner, 2005-04-27 In this groundbreaking work Harry K Wong Laura Lipton Bruce Wellman and other top names in the field examine how successful mentoring and induction programs are developed and demonstrate how they can be replicated Beginning Principal Induction Programs Jamie B. Burkhart, 2007 Criticism of public education has brought about changes to policies at state and national levels requiring school districts to account for and improve student achievement This increases the demand on school administrators to become more effective educational leaders The stakes are high at both national and state levels to meet the state and national standards in order for schools to maintain accreditation The responsibility for increasing student achievement is placed upon school administrators especially principals Frequently beginning principals do not have the skills necessary and are unprepared for the demands that will be placed upon them as they accept the responsibility for an entire school Beginning principals are seldom provided enough support to increase their skills and knowledge to ensure that students are achieving at proficient levels Current support practices include professional development programs individual school district programs and mentor or induction programs required by some states These programs provide varying degrees and quality of assistance most fall short of what is needed This project focusing on principal induction addressed this issue Through a review of related literature the Principal Induction Project team identified 24 areas of responsibility in the principalship The team also investigated induction policies and programs in all 50 states as well as in selected local education agencies Based on these investigations a survey was developed to gather information about the needs of new principals in the 24 areas Data were collected from Missouri principals and superintendents and were analyzed to rank the needs of new principals Data were disaggregated by school size free and reduced lunch percentages building levels and location rural suburban and urban communities In addition to the identification of the highest ranked needs results revealed differences in the subgroups indicating the value of differentiated designs for induction programs and services The investigation process allowed the team to develop substantive recommendations regarding the content and delivery of induction support for new principals Induction programs with mentoring and coaching components should be provided for all new principals more importantly they should target specific areas in which the principals struggle

Comprehensive Strategic Plan for Elementary and Secondary Education Progress Report Illinois State Board of Education (1973- ), 2010 Pursuant to Public Act 93-1036, the Illinois State Board of Education has developed a five-year comprehensive strategic plan for elementary and secondary education in Illinois. The plan focuses on three primary goal areas: enhancing literacy; improving educator quality for all children; and expanding data-driven management and school support practices.

New Teacher Mentoring Ellen Moir, 2009 In this practical yet visionary book, Ellen Moir and her colleagues at the New Teacher Center review what current research suggests and doesn't about the power of well-designed mentoring programs to shape teacher and student outcomes. They set forth the principles of high-quality instructional mentoring and describe the elements of a rigorous professional development program. Detailed case studies show how these principles can be applied at the district level and highlight the opportunities and challenges involved in implementing these programs in different contexts. This book makes a powerful case for using new teacher mentoring as an entry point for creating a strong professional culture with a shared, aligned understanding of high-quality teaching. One of the biggest challenges facing educational leaders today is finding strategies to keep our best and brightest teachers in our nation's classrooms. Mentoring new and veteran teachers is critical to meeting that challenge. New Teacher Mentoring: Hopes and Promise for Improving Teacher Effectiveness is a must-read for educators who are serious about transforming America's classrooms. Beverly L. Hall, superintendent, Atlanta Public Schools and 2009 National Superintendent of the Year. A combination of theory and practice makes this book particularly useful to educators who are responsible for the success of new teachers. The wisdom, experience, and dedication of the authors ensures that the field has a book that will endure as a valued resource for decades. Stephanie Hirsh, executive director, National Staff Development Council. Ellen Moir and her colleagues are world leaders in teacher mentoring. Tens of thousands of children and young people would be far worse off had it not been for the significantly better classrooms that their well-mentored teachers have created. Moir and all those at the New Teacher Center know how to do mentoring, how to improve mentoring, and how to achieve all this on an immense scale Here they show just how well they can write about mentoring too If you are a teacher or want to help one then read this book Its rigorous evidence based analysis and riveting prose will inspire you inform you and spur you on to do even greater things for your own and other teachers students Andy Hargreaves Brennan Chair in Education Boston College Ellen Moir is founder and executive director of the New Teacher Center Dara Barlin is the associate director of policy for the New Teacher Center Janet Gless is associate director of the New Teacher Center Jan Miles is northwest regional director at the New Teacher Center Cultivating High-Quality Teaching Through Induction and Mentoring Carol A.
