Commission on Civil Rights,2018-02-16 Excerpt from Racial Isolation in the Public Schools Vol 1 A Report of the U S Commission of Civil Rights Although we have made substantial progress in ending formal segregation of schools racial isolation in the schools persists both in the North and the South because of housing patterns School districting economic stratification and population movements It has become apparent that such isolation presents serious barriers to quality education The problems are more subtle and complex than those presented by segregation imposed by law The reme dies may be difficult But as a first and vital step the Nation needs to know the facts About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools United States Commission on Civil Rights,1967 V 1 Report v 2 Appendices      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools a Report Commission on Civil Rights (Estados Unidos),1967      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools; a Report... United States Commission On Civi Rights,2013-12 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools United States Commission on Civil Rights,1967      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools United States Commission on Civil Rights,1967      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools William R. Racial Isolation in the Public Schools Commission on Civil Rights (Estados Unidos),1967      Racial Isolation in the Public Schools ,1967      After "Brown" Charles T. Clotfelter,2006-03-19 The United States Supreme Court s 1954 landmark decision Brown v Board of Education set into motion a process of desegregation that would eventually transform American public schools. This book provides a comprehensive and up to date assessment of how Brown's most visible effect, contact between students of different racial groups, has changed over the fifty years since the decision. Using both published and unpublished data on school enrollments from across the country, Charles Clotfelter uses measures of interracial contact, racial isolation and segregation to chronicle the changes. He goes beyond previous studies by drawing on heretofore unanalyzed enrollment data covering the first decade after Brown, calculating segregation for metropolitan areas rather than just school districts, accounting for private schools, presenting recent information on segregation within schools, and measuring segregation in college enrollment. Two main conclusions emerge. First, interracial contact in American schools and colleges increased markedly over the period, with the most dramatic changes occurring in the previously segregated South. Second, despite this change, four main factors prevented even larger increases: white reluctance to accept racially mixed schools, the multiplicity of options for avoiding such schools, the willingness of local officials to accommodate the wishes of reluctant whites, and the eventual loss of will on the part of those who had been the strongest protagonists in the push for desegregation. Thus, decreases in segregation within districts were partially offset by growing disparities between districts and by selected increases in private school enrollment.
