Daniel Gregory, Kourken Michaelian

Memory And Dream:

Memory and Dreams George Christos, 2003 Australian mathematician Christos studies neural networks memory and learning and adaptive systems He presents a theory of how memory is stored processed retrieved and manipulated proposes ideas of how the brain can generate novel information and creative ideas contemplates what the brain may be doing during dreaming and delivers his theory about the cause of sudden infant syndrome He tries to keep the discussion accessible to general readers but hopes scientists may also find interest in it

Dreaming and Memory: Philosophical Issues Daniel Gregory, Kourken Michaelian, 2024-10-22 This edited volume is the first systematic philosophical investigation of the complex and multifarious relationships between dreaming and memory Featuring fifteen contributions by leading researchers it explores a range of issues that arise when dreaming and memory are considered together What does one remember when one remembers what one dreamt and what is it for a memory of a dream to be accurate What are the phenomenological cognitive and epistemic similarities and dissimilarities between dreaming and remembering How does the self figure in dreams and memories The book will serve as an indispensable resource both for philosophers interested in dreaming or memory and for their philosophically minded colleagues in empirical disciplines and will provide an invaluable starting point for advanced students in need of a snapshot of the state of the art in philosophical research on dreaming and memory Chapters 2 10 and 16 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com

Memory in the Real World Gillian Cohen, Martin A. Conway, 2007-12-03 This fully revised and updated third edition of the highly acclaimed Memory in the Real World includes recent research in all areas of everyday memory Distinguished researchers have contributed new and updated material in their own areas of expertise The controversy about the value of naturalistic research as opposed to traditional laboratory methods is outlined and the two approaches are seen to have converged and become complementary rather than antagonistic The editors bring together studies on many different topics such as memory for plans and actions for names and faces for routes and maps life experiences and flashbulb memory and eyewitness memory Emphasis is also given to the role of memory in consciousness and metacognition New topics covered in this edition include life span development of memory collaborative remembering déjà vu and memory dysfunction in the real world Memory in the Real World will be of continuing appeal to students and researchers in the area

Memory and Dreams George Christos, 2003 Why do we dream What are dreams What is the relationship between dreams and creativity How does the brain formulate memories and creative thoughts What causes SIDS sudden infant death syndrome These fundamental questions and many many more are answered in this extraordinary and stimulating book from Perth s Dr George Christos In Memory and Dreams Christos explains how memory is stored retrieved and processed in the brain and why human memory is fundamentally different from computer memory He describes how the brain develops after birth and explains why we forget The book advances new and fascinating ideas on how the brain generates new ideas and creativity and thinks based on the way in which memories are stored in the brain As a consequence of the brain's storage arrangement the brain generates so called spurious memories which Christos argues are the basis of our creativity He says spurious memories are actually also essential for new learning Along the way he comes up with an explanation of deja vu based on the confusion of spurious memories with real memories Memory and Dreams also looks at what the brain may be doing during rapid eye movement REM sleep the phase of sleep associated with dreaming The function of dreaming is one of the main unsolved puzzles in neurobiology Christos advances his own theory that dream sleep is required to generate more spurious memories or roughness in our memory space which allows the brain to be more adaptive and prepares it for new learning experiences Finally the book advances Christos's already controversial theory on SIDS sudden infant death syndrome which is currently receiving world wide attention
