Memory Artists:

Performativity and the Representation of Memory: Resignification, Appropriation, and Embodiment Dinis, Frederico, 2024-08-21 The age of digital culture has not only brought significant transformations in how we perceive memory history and heritage but it has also raised pressing questions about authenticity and ownership of memory The role of digital technologies in shaping collective identities is a topic of intense scrutiny Moreover contemporary societies grapple with complex issues in the politics of memory especially with the proliferation of diverse narratives and the manipulation of public spaces The book's content is therefore highly relevant offering critical reflection and scholarly analysis to these societal challenges Performativity and the Representation of Memory Resignification Appropriation and Embodiment offers a comprehensive exploration of these issues examining how contemporary practices of re-enactment intersect with digital contexts to shape our understanding of memory and heritage The book analyzes the processes of memory creation and transmission in digital environments providing a nuanced understanding of how memory is constructed shared and contested in the digital age It also explores the role of arts-based research and participatory practices in documenting and preserving collective memories offering insights into new forms of memory sharing and identity formation

At Memory's Edge James Edward Young, 2000-01-01 How should Germany commemorate the mass murder of Jews once committed in its name In 1997 James E Young was invited to join a German commission appointed to find an appropriate design for a national memorial in Berlin to the European Jews killed in World War II As the only foreigner and only Jew on the panel Young gained a unique perspective on Germany's fraught efforts to memorialize the Holocaust In this book he tells for the first time the inside story of Germany's national Holocaust memorial and his own role in it In exploring Germany's memorial crisis Young also asks the more general question of how a generation of contemporary artists can remember an event like the Holocaust which it never knew directly Young examines the works of a number of vanguard artists in America and Europe including Art Spiegelman Shimon Attie David Levinthal and Rachel Whiteread all born after the Holocaust but indelibly shaped by its memory as passed down through memoirs film photographs and museums In the context of the moral and aesthetic questions raised by these avant-garde projects Young offers fascinating insights into the controversy surrounding Berlin's newly opened Jewish museum designed by Daniel Libeskind as well as Germany's soon-to-be built national Holocaust memorial designed by Peter Eisenman Illustrated with striking images in color and black and white At Memory's Edge is the first book in any language to chronicle these projects and to show how we remember the Holocaust in the after-images of its history

Memory in Art in the Contemporary Andreas Huyssen, 2022-03 Memory Art in the Contemporary World deals with the ever expanding field of transnational memory art which has emerged from a political need to come to terms with traumatic historical pasts from the Holocaust to apartheid colonialism state terror and civil war The book focuses on the work of several contemporary artists from beyond the Northern Transatlantic including William Kentridge Vivian Sundaram Doris Salcedo Nalini Malani and Guillermo Kuitca all of whom reflect on historical situations specific to their own countries but in work which has been shown to have a transnational reach Andreas Huyssen considers their dual investment in memories of state violence and memories of modernism as central to the affective power of their work This thought provoking and highly relevant book reflects on the various forms and critical potential of memory art in a contemporary world which both obsesses about the past in the building of monuments and museums and an emphasis on retro and nostalgia in popular culture and simultaneously fosters historical amnesia in increasingly flattened notions of temporality encouraged by the internet and social media
