Shot/Countershot Lucy Fischer, 2014-07-14 Do films made by women comprise a counter cinema radically different from the dominant tradition Feminist film critics contend that women filmmakers do present from a distinctive vision or countershot and Lucy Fischer argues persuasively for this view In rich detail this book relates the idea of a counter cinema to theories of intertextuality and locates it in the broad context of recent feminist film literary and art criticism Fischer also employs an original critical model of the dialogue between women's cinema and film tradition in the very organization of the book Each chapter discusses a theme or genre such as the musical the double the myth of womanhood and the figure of the actress counterposing two or more works from the feminist and from the dominant cinema What emerges is a fascinating picture of a women's film tradition that not only addresses but reworks and remakes the mainstream cinema Fischer successfully combines two main strains of feminist criticism the deconstructive critique of the dominant culture from a feminist standpoint and the study of a feminist counterculture Examining films from Persona and The Lady from Shanghai to Girlfriends and Sisters or the Balance of Happiness the book offers fresh interpretations of individual works and can incidentally serve as an introduction to the field of feminist film criticism Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Ethical Demand K. E. Løgstrup, 2020-03-26 The Ethical Demand 1956 by K E L gstrup is one of the great works of modern moral philosophy it is presented here in a new translation with introduction and notes L gstrup puts forward his distinctive view concerning our vulnerability to each other and what this requires of us in response He starts by considering Jesus's proclamation to love your neighbour and how this can be understood in purely human terms as relating to basic features of our existence Reflecting on the phenomenon of trust L gstrup emphasizes the fundamental interdependence of human life and how this gives rise to an ethical demand on us to care for the other which he characterizes as radical silent one sided and unfulfillable In order to make sense of a demand of this sort L gstrup argues we must see life as a gift rather than treating ourselves as the sovereign grounds for our own existence He contrasts this demand to social norms which are often reciprocal in this way and argues that while such norms are changeable the ethical demand itself is absolute L gstrup therefore makes a fundamental contribution to our understanding of the nature of and basis for our obligations to each other In this critical edition L gstrup s original text is accurately rendered into readable English and paired with an introduction which explains the main themes and wider context of the work The Lyceumite and Talent ,1907 Everybody's Magazine ,1907 Note on the text, and Books I-V (with appendices) Plato,1902 The Avatar Jonathan Cahn,2025-09-02
