Roads To Space:

Mobility, Space, and Culture Peter Merriman, 2012 Over the past ten to fifteen years there has emerged an increasing concern with mobility in the social sciences and humanities In Mobility Space and Culture Peter Merriman provides an important and timely contribution to the mobilities turn in the social sciences encouraging academics to rethink the relationship between movement embodied practices space and place The book takes an interdisciplinary approach drawing upon theoretical and empirical work from across the social sciences and humanities to provide a critical evaluation of the relationship between mobility and place site reformulating places as in process open and dynamic spatial formations Merriman draws upon post structuralist writings on space practice and society to demonstrate how movement is not simply practised or experienced in relation to space and time but gives rise to rhythms forces atmospheres affects and materialities which are often more crucial to embodied apprehensions of events than sensibilities of spatiality and temporality He draws upon detailed empirical research on experiences of and social reactions to driving in late Victorian and Edwardian Britain to trace how the motor car became associated with sensations of movement space and enmeshed with debates about embodiment health visuality gender and politics The book will be essential reading for undergraduates and postgraduates studying mobility in sociology geography cultural studies politics transport studies and history
