Latino Language and Literacy in Ethnolinguistic Chicago Marcia Farr,2005-01-03 This volume along with its companion Ethnolinguistic Chicago Language and Literacy in the City s Neighborhoods fills an important gap in research on Chicago and more generally on language use in globalized metropolitan areas Often cited as a quintessential American city Chicago is and always has been a city of immigrants It is one of the most linguistically diverse cities in the United States and home to one of the largest and most diverse Latino communities Although language is unquestionably central to social identity and Chicago has been well studied by scholars interested in ethnicity until now no one has focused as do the contributors to these volumes on the related issues of language and ethnicity Latino Language and Literacy in Ethnolinguistic Chicago includes ethnographic studies based in home settings that focus on ways of speaking and literacy practices studies that explore oral language use and literacy practices in school contexts and studies based in community spaces in various neighborhoods It offers a rich set of portraits emphasizing language use as centrally related to ethnic class or gender identities As such it is relevant for anthropologists sociologists linguists historians educators and educational researchers and others whose concerns require an understanding of ground level phenomena relevant to contemporary social issues and as a text for courses in these areas

Best Leadership Practices for High-poverty Schools Linda L. Lyman, Christine J. Villani, 2004
 Best Leadership Practices for High Poverty Schools presents both the practice and theory of best leadership practices in high poverty schools Authors Linda Lyman and Christine Villani take a unique approach by inviting readers into two high poverty elementary schools where they will experience through in depth case studies how two extraordinary principals model and practice their beliefs in the ability and worth of all children

Social Justice in Clinical Practice Dawn Belkin Martinez, Ann Fleck-Henderson, 2014-03-14 Social work theory and ethics places social justice at its core and recognises that many clients from oppressed and marginalized communities frequently suffer greater forms and degrees of physical and mental illness However social justice work has all too often been conceptualized as a macro intervention separate and distinct from clinical practice This practical text is designed to help social workers intervene around the impact of socio political factors with their clients and integrate social justice into their clinical work Based on past radical traditions it introduces and applies a liberation health framework which merges clinical and macro work into a singular unified way of working with individuals families and communities Opening with a chapter on the theory and historical roots of liberation social work practice each subsequent chapter goes on to look at a particular population group or individual case study including LGBT communities Mental health illness Violence Addiction Working with ethnic minorities Health Written by a team of experienced lecturers and practitioners Social Justice in Clinical Practice provides a clear focussed practice oriented model of clinical social work for both social work practitioners and students
