Abstract: The evolution of basic nutrition concepts from Greco-Roman times to the present is examined for professional nutritionists and those interested in the history of civilization. Biographical sketches are presented of some of the great contributors to scientific nutrition knowledge, including Aristotle, Galen, Lavoisier, Mendel, and Funk, who first propounded the theory of vitamins; their observations and experiments form the basis for chronologically tracing advances in nutrition research. The history is divided into 2 areas of knowledge: the first section focuses on the concepts of nourishment and energy, the transformation and assimilation of food by the body, innate body heat, the functions of metabolism and respiration, etc. The second section discusses the growth of knowledge about nutritional diseases, including scurvy, beriberi, xerophthalmia, endemic goiter, and anemia.      Journal of the American Public Health Association, 1917      Diseases of Children, for Nurses Robert Shelmerdine McCombs, 1907      Journal of Wildlife Diseases, 1985      Handy Poultry Disease Manual George Harold Conn, 1930      Report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of California, 1920      The Official Vital Statistics of the Kingdom of Hungary League of Nations, Major Greenwood, Percy Granville Edge, 1927      Annual Report of the New York State Veterinary College New York State Veterinary College, 1926      Reprint from the Public Health Reports United States.
