

Cultural Identity & Identity Negotiation

Cultural Identity is the emotional significance that we attach to our sense of belonging or affiliation with the larger culture.

- ❖ All of us are socialized within a larger cultural membership group.
  - We are often asked – where do you come from?
  - There are ‘in-groups’ and ‘out-groups’ to which we belong.
- ❖ Cultural Identity Salience
  - The degree to which we attach our emotional significance.

Identity Negotiation is how people interact with each other and understand “who is who” in their relationships.

- People have expectations about each other’s identity (they tacitly agree and assume you are who you are).
- It’s a process that establishes what we can expect from each other.
- Think of it as “interpersonal glue” that sticks you together within your relationships.

When someone asks you where you're from ... do you sometimes not know how to answer? Writer Taiye Selasi speaks on behalf of “multi-local” people, who feel at home in the town where they grew up, the city they live now and maybe another place or two: “How can I come from a country?” she asks. “How can a human being come from a concept?”
