Sentence Processing Psycholinguistic Studies Presented To Merrill Garrett:

Sentence Processing Merrill F. Garrett, 1979      Sentence Processing, 1979      Understanding Word and Sentence
G.B. Simpson, 1991-01-14 Research concerning structure and processing in the mental lexicon has achieved central prominence within cognitive psychology and psycholinguistics. Historically, however, much of the research on the lexicon focussed not on its role in language comprehension but as a medium for studying semantic memory. This picture has changed in recent years with much more research examining the role of lexical processes and output in language comprehension. Gathered together in this volume is the work of some of those researchers who are responsible for this shift of emphasis. Chapters deal with the role of sentence contexts in word recognition processes involved in the activation and enhancement of lexical information and the interaction of lexical and syntactic information in sentence processing. A wide range of theoretical and empirical issues relating to language understanding are discussed.      Psychology Library Editions: Neuropsychology Various, 2021-03-29 Neuropsychology is the study of the relationship between behaviour, emotion and cognition on the one hand and brain function on the other. Psychology Library Editions Neuropsychology 12 Volume set presents titles originally published between 1981 and 1993 covering a variety of areas within neuropsychology, a relatively new discipline at the time as it firmly established itself within the field of psychology. It includes contributions from well respected academics, many still active in neuropsychology today.      Perspectives on the Study of Speech P. D. Eimas, J. L. Miller, 2013-05-13 Published in the year 1982, Perspectives on the Study of Speech is a valuable contribution to the field of Cognitive Psychology.      The Production-Comprehension Interface in Second Language Acquisition Anke Lenzen, 2021-01-14 Examining a key issue in second language acquisition (SLA) research, this book explores the relation between second language (L2) production and comprehension at the level of processing. The central question underlying this interface is the relationship between grammatical encoding and decoding, namely, are the two modalities of production and comprehension subserved by different types of processors or by the same syntactic processing module? Proposing an Integrated Encoding-Decoding Model of SLA, Anke Lenzen presents the results of a comprehensive empirical study to demonstrate the extent to which the two modalities rely on shared representations and/or shared processes. Through this detailed analysis, The Production-Comprehension Interface in Second Language Acquisition sheds new light on the cognitive architecture of human language processing and offers a deeper understanding of the mechanisms at work in the L2 acquisition process.      Cognitive Psychology Alan D. Baddeley, Niels Ole Bernsen, 1989 The papers in this series of five volumes provide a snapshot of current trends in European Cognitive Science. Each of the volumes deals with problems in cognitive science from a different perspective, covering the interacting disciplines of cognitive psychology, logic and linguistics, human-computer interaction, neuroscience and artificial intelligence, respectively. Based on the analysis and exposition of the state of the art in their various fields of expertise, the contributors take a prospective look at the basic research problems confronting cognitive science over the next five to ten years Whilst the authors and editors do consider a wide range of research in their area they have been encouraged to give their personal view of important directions rather than a bland comprehensive list Although inevitably controversial this approach allows a stimulating review of the field and one which should inspire debate The highly interdisciplinary nature of cognitive science research means that many issues such as natural language or vision are explored from diverse perspectives in papers representing different disciplines Each contribution has been written in a way which makes it comprehensible to colleagues from neighbouring disciplines as well as students of cognitive science It will be particularly useful to graduate students contemplating research projects The work has been supported and coordinated by the research unit FAST Forecast and Assessment in Science and Technology of the EEC Commission in Brussels

Carroll, 1994 This comprehensive and balanced introduction to the psychology of language provides students with all the necessary information presented in a more accessible and interactive way than its competitors Main lines of classic and contemporary research are examined with possible implications for application Everyday examples are used and there are opportunities for active learning demonstrations The book is organized in a coherent manner and has been completely updated with the latest research    FoL, 1984
