Scripts Grooves And Writing Machines:

Scripts, Grooves, and Writing Machines Lisa Gitelman, 1999 The phonograph and the typewriter may be things of the past but this book will resonate with readers who are engaged daily with computer networks hypertexts and the forms that mass media will take in the new century BOOK JACKET Audio Book Mikko Keskinen, 2008-01-01 Audio Book deals with the ways in which the auditory voices sounds noises is represented in postphonograph narrative fiction More specifically it examines how the various technologies enabling the transmission or storing of sound and voice are figured in selected prose works Drawing from contemporary American British French and German literature the author discusses these use of these technologies in Nicholson Baker's Vox Michel Tournier's Tristan Vox Heinrich B ll s Murke's Collected Silences Don DeLillo's The Body Artist Nick Hornby's High Fidelity and Sylvia Brownrigg's The Metaphysical Touch The texts foreground sound technologies the telephone radio tape recorder answering machine record player or counterintuitively e mail in their narration and manifest important aspects of audio in literature In prior criticism these texts have not been systematically read from media technological perspectives The sound technologies represented in the texts problematize the clear distinction between speech and writing or between natural articulation and its technological reproduction Audio Book suggests that literary writing is metaphorically conceivable as a transmitting and storing technology as an audiobook of sorts capable of recording upon writing and reproducing upon reading auditory information The sound technologies proper have also bearing on the narrative structure metaphors and style of each fictional work studied in Audio Book In addition themes such as identity genre the nature of literary representation and the absence presence problem are brought to the fore on account of the technologies depicted Sound Writing Shelley Trower, 2023 Sound Writing examines how oral histories are co created by speakers the authors who mediate them and readers It offers a thorough review of the varying arguments about editing for transcription and publication and reflects on how digital technologies enable a much wider access to oral data As an interdisciplinary study it considers how literary genres and oral history have long influenced each other and have informed our understandings of authorship and reading Wireless Dada Kurt Beals, 2019-11-15 Wireless Dada Telegraphic Poetics in the Avant Garde demonstrates that the poetics of the Dada movement was profoundly influenced by the telegraph and the technological and social transformations that it brought about in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries While telegraphy's impact on Italian Futurism and German Expressionism is widely acknowledged its formative role in Dada poetics has been largely neglected Drawing on media history and theory avant garde studies and German literary studies Kurt Beals shows how the telegraph and the cultural discourses that surrounded it shaped the radical works of this seminal avant garde movement The nonsense strain in Dada is frequently seen as a response to the senseless violence of the First World War Beals argues that it was not just the war that turned Dada poetry into a jumble of senseless signals it was also the wireless

Writing Technology in Meiji Japan Seth Jacobowitz, 2020-05-11 Writing Technology in Meiji Japan boldly rethinks the origins of modern Japanese language literature and visual culture from the perspective of media history Drawing upon methodological insights by Friedrich Kittler and extensive archival research Seth Jacobowitz investigates a range of epistemic transformations in the Meiji era 1868 1912 from the rise of communication networks such as telegraph and post to debates over national language and script reform He documents the changing discursive practices and conceptual constellations that reshaped the verbal visual and literary regimes from the Tokugawa era These changes culminate in the discovery of a new vernacular literary style from the shorthand transcriptions of theatrical storytelling rakugo that was subsequently championed by major writers such as Masaoka Shiki and Natsume S seki as the basis for a new mode of transparently objective transcriptive realism The birth of modern Japanese literature is thus located not only in shorthand alone but within the emergent multimedia channels that were arriving from the West This book represents the first systematic study of the ways in which media and inscriptive technologies available in Japan at its threshold of modernization in the late nineteenth to early twentieth century shaped and brought into being modern Japanese literature

Out of Earshot Asma Naeem, 2020-01-07 Out of Earshot offers a reconfiguration of three of the nineteenth century's most prolific painters Winslow Homer 1836 1910 Thomas Eakins 1844 1916 and Thomas Dewing 1851 1939 Asma Naeem considers how these painters turned in ways significant for their individual artistic ventures to themes of sound and listening throughout their careers She shows how the aural dimension of these artists' pictures was an ideological product of period class gender cultural racial and technological discourses Equally important by looking at such materials as the artists' papers scientific illustrations and technological brochures Naeem argues that the work of these painters has complex and previously unconsidered connections to developments in sound and listening during a period when unprecedented innovation in the United States led to such inventions as the telegraph and phonograph and forged a technological narrative that continues to have force in the twenty-first century Naeem's unusual approach to the work of these three well-known American artists offers a transformative account of artistic response during their own era and beyond The Late Victorian Gothic Hilary Grimes, 2016-03-03 Examining the automatic writing of the spiritualist's ancestors discursive technologies like the telegraph and the photograph various genres and late nineteenth-century mental science this book shows the failure of writers' attempts to use technology as a way of translating the supernatural at the fin de siècle Hilary Grimes shows that both new technology and explorations into the ghostly aspects of the mind made agency problematic When notions of agency are suspended Grimes argues authorship itself becomes uncanny Grimes's study is distinct in both recognizing and crossing strict boundaries to suggest that Gothic literature itself resists categorization not only between literary periods but also between genres Treating a wide range of authors Henry James Rudyard Kipling Arthur Conan Doyle George Du Maurier Vernon Lee Mary Louisa Molesworth Sarah Grand and George Paston Grimes shows how fin de siècle works negotiate themes associated with the Victorian and Modernist periods such as psychical research mass marketing and new technologies With particular attention to texts that are not placed within the Gothic genre but which nevertheless conceal Gothic themes The Late Victorian Gothic demonstrates that the end of the nineteenth century produced a Gothicism specific to the period Sound Clash Kara Keeling, Josh Kun, 2012-05-07 Race sex and gender Phonographies Alexander G. Weheliye, 2005-05-20 Cultural study of the effects of sound technologies from the phonograph to the Walkman on African American literature art and music in the twentieth century Ham Radio's Technical Culture Kristen Haring, 2008 A history of ham radio culture how ham radio enthusiasts formed identity and community through their technical hobby from the 1930s through the Cold War Decades before the Internet ham radio provided instantaneous global person to person communication Hundreds of thousands of amateur radio operators a predominantly male middle and upper class group known as hams built and operated two way radios for recreation in mid twentieth century America In Ham Radio s Technical Culture Kristen Haring examines why so many men adopted the technical hobby of ham radio from the 1930s through 1970s and how the pastime helped them form identity and community Ham radio required solitary tinkering with sophisticated electronics equipment often isolated from domestic activities in a radio shack yet the hobby thrived on fraternal interaction Conversations on the air grew into friendships and hams gathered in clubs or met informally for eyeball contacts Within this community hobbyists developed distinct values and practices with regard to radio creating a particular technical culture Outsiders viewed amateur radio operators with a mixture of awe and suspicion impressed by hams mastery of powerful technology but uneasy about their contact with foreigners especially during periods of political tension Drawing on a wealth of personal accounts found in radio magazines and newsletters and from technical manuals trade journals and government documents Haring describes how ham radio culture rippled through hobbyists lives She explains why hi tech employers recruited hams and why electronics manufacturers catered to these specialty customers She discusses hams position within the military and civil defense during World War II and the Cold War as well as the effect of the hobby on family dynamics By considering ham radio in the context of other technical hobbies model building photography high fidelity audio and similar leisure pursuits Haring highlights the shared experiences of technical hobbyists She shows that tinkerers influenced attitudes toward technology beyond hobby communities enriching the general technical culture by posing a vital counterpoint Transactions and Encounters Roger Luckhurst, Josephine McDonagh, 2002 Transactions and Encounters brings together essays by leading scholars exploring the complex interface of culture and science in the Victorian era Technology and Culture, 2002 The Irish Revival Reappraised Betsey Taylor FitzSimon, James H.
