Measuring Psychopathology:

Measuring Psychopathology Anne Farmer, Peter McGuffin, Julie Williams, 2002-02-14 Measuring Psychopathology describes the methods by which the signs and symptoms of mental disorder are elicited, examined, and evaluated. Written for the non-clinical researcher as well as for those with clinical experience, the authors start by considering the question: what is psychopathology? They then employ a historical perspective to explain why and how mental disorders are currently classified and how the use of an operational approach to diagnosis was adopted. The use of operational criteria to define psychiatric disorder has facilitated the development of standardised interviewing techniques, questionnaires, and rating scales. These tools are all covered in some detail, not only with regard to adults with mental disorders but also with reference to special and challenging groups such as children and the elderly and those with a learning disability, substance misuse, or who have a personality disorder. The strengths and weaknesses of current methodologies are explored and debated, as well as the future diagnostic needs for research in the 21st century. Essential reading for clinicians and non-clinical scientists engaged in research on psychiatric disorders, trainees, and junior psychiatrists and clinical psychologists.

Emerging Issues and Methods in Personality Assessment John A. Schinka, Roger L. Greene, 2013-06-17 This book constitutes a collection of articles that were written for and recently published as special sections in three consecutive issues of the Journal of Personality Assessment. Part I provides lucid commentaries on the current status of and future issues regarding the Rorschach and MMPI-2 and other instruments including the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory-Adolescent, MMPI-A, the Interpersonal Adjective Scales (IAS-R), the Inventory of Interpersonal Problems-Circumplex version (IIP-C), the revised NEO Personality Inventory (NEO-PI-R), and the third edition of the Millon Clinical Multiaxial Inventory (MCMI-III). The authors not only participated in the development of the instruments but continue to lead the research effort in their application in both clinical and research settings. Part II addresses several issues that have been recurring themes and often topics of debate in the research and professional literature. The contributors discuss the impact of the five-factor model on personality assessment, the issue of deception in personality assessment, and various critical issues in the measurement of mood states. Other articles focus on the integration of the MMPI-2 and Rorschach and the process that clinicians should follow when applying scientific knowledge to clinical practice. Part III is primarily devoted to overviews of several statistical methods that are employed infrequently in personality assessment research but have great potential in contributing to the understanding of the complex data sets often encountered in the measurement and study of personality. These articles serve as both an introduction and a brief tutorial for personality researchers who are unfamiliar with the subject matter. They are valuable references that will form the basis for evaluating the appropriate use of these methods in published research in their areas of interest.

Contemporary Approaches to Neuropsychological Assessment Gerald Goldstein, Theresa M. Incagnoli, 2013-06-29 This volume reflects in part an update of Clinical Application of Neuropsychological Test Batteries edited by Theresa Incagnoli Gerald Goldstein and Charles Golden some 10 years ago While the initial concept of the present editors involved doing a straightforward update of each chapter it soon became apparent that the field of clinical neuropsychology had changed so dramatically and rapidly that substantial changes in the outline had to be made It was our view that sufficient interest remained in the standard comprehensive neuropsychological test batteries to make an update worthwhile We asked four senior people to take on this assignment James Moses Jr and Arnold Purisch in the case of the Luria Nebraska Battery and James Reed and Homer Reed for the Halstead Reitan Battery These individuals all have long term associations with these procedures and can be viewed as pioneers in their development However it also seemed to us that there was an increasing interest in the psychometric aspects of the standard procedures and in assessment issues related to the relative merits of using standard or individualized assessment strategies Thus we have chapters by Elbert Russell and Gerald Goldstein that provide discussions of these current methodological and clinical issues During the past 10 years the cognitive revolution has made a strong impact on neuropsychology The interest of cognitive psychologists in brain function has increased dramatically and we now have an active field of cognitive neuropsychology something that was only beginning 10 years ago

Personality Assessment in Police Psychology Peter A. Weiss, 2010 In recent years personality assessment by professional psychologists has taken on an increasingly important role in the field of police work Most importantly personality assessment instruments have been utilized in the pre employment psychological screening of police officer candidates This psychological screening takes place at the end of the hiring process to ensure that candidates do not have personality characteristics or existing psychopathology that would interfere with their job performance Personality assessment is also used for other applications in police psychology These applications include fitness for duty evaluations FFDEs and second opinion evaluations of officers who challenge hiring decisions Moreover police psychologists are involved in a considerable amount of research in order to determine which tests and scales are most appropriate for evaluations The present volume is divided into four parts to cover the relevant issues in personality assessment for police work Part I provides an introduction and the basic principles of personality assessment in police psychology Part II focuses on the major assessment instruments used in police psychology These include the MMPI 2 the Personality Assessment Inventory PAI the Inwald Personality Inventory IPI and Hilson Tests the M PULSE Inventory pre offer integrity instruments and the Rorschach Comprehensive System Part III examines multiple issues in personality assessment research in the field of police psychology Part IV covers applications of personality assessment in police psychology These applications include pre employment evaluations fitness for duty evaluations conditional second opinion psychological evaluations of candidates using multiple sources of information when conducting mandatory or required evaluations and the politics of personality assessment in police agencies This unique and comprehensive text is designed for psychologists who are actively working in the field of law enforcement including psychologists in both applied and research academic settings

Frame,Johnny L. Matson,2013-11-21 One of the most important practical problems in child psychology and psychia try is the differential diagnosis of emotional disorders Until recently the gener al mode of assessment had been to apply to children the characteristics of psychopathology that were evident in adults In addition there had been few assessment tools available for use with children aside from modified versions of adult instruments Understandably this approach was controversial and dissat isfaction with it led to the more recent knowledge that adult and child problems may be manifested quite differently The third edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders takes these factors into account much more extensively than previous editions Furthermore a great deal of research on methodology in child assessment procedures has emerged recently Yet in spite of these advances practicing clinicians are still frequently at a loss in moving from the characteristics of the disturbed child before them to the final assign ment of a psychiatric diagnosis The focus of this book is to outline the various methods of viewing and categorizing the wide range childhood psycho pathology with special emphasis on the end product of making a differential diagnosis Our goal was to make this book unique in several ways First we attempted to cover a wider range of disorders than is typical in currently available hand books     "Code of Massachusetts regulations, 2003" ,2003 Archival snapshot of entire looseleaf Code of Massachusetts Regulations held by the Social Law Library of Massachusetts as of January 2020     "Code of Massachusetts regulations, 2002" ,2002 Archival snapshot of entire looseleaf Code of Massachusetts Regulations held by the Social Law Library of Massachusetts as of January 2020     The Measurement of Emotion Walter Whately Smith,1922     The Measurement of Emotion Whately Carington,1922     Personality, Self-esteem, and Prejudice Christopher Bagley,1979
