

Preparation of emulsions

- Emulsions can be prepared on a small scale using mortar and pestle.
- Electrical mixers (homogenizers) can also be used.
- All equipment used must be clean and dry.
- All water-soluble and oil-soluble components of the emulsion are separately dissolved in the appropriate phase.
- A suitable emulsifying agent must be chosen. Acacia gum is usually used when making O/W emulsions for oral use.
- A primary emulsion should be prepared first, which is thick and stable emulsion.

Practical Emulsion:

Emulsions Johan Sjöblom, 1992 The fundamental side of this book covers general aspects of stability interfacial adsorption mechanisms interfacial rheology direct measurements of surface forces and the bulk rheological properties of emulsions and self diffusion properties as measured by NMR The applications side covers the fields of food crude oil and pharmaceutical emulsions A central topic in the study of food emulsions is the role played by proteins at the water oil interface their conformations and the mechanism by which they can be replaced at the interface competitive adsorption

Smith, 2012-12-02 Theory and Practice of Emulsion Technology covers the proceedings of the Theory and Practice of Emulsion Technology Symposium held at Brunel University on September 16 18 1974 This book is organized into four sessions encompassing 19 chapters The opening session deals with the emulsification process and emulsion polymerization as well as the adsorption behavior of polyelectrolyte stabilized emulsions The following session examines the rheological properties stability and fluid mechanics of emulsions This session also looks into the role of protein conformation and crude oil water interfacial properties in emulsion stability The third session highlights the preparation formation properties and application of bitumen emulsions The concluding session describes the process of spontaneous emulsification the steric emulsion stabilization the interfacial measurements of oil in water emulsions and the influence of the disperse phase on emulsion stability This book will be of value to chemists chemical and process engineers and researchers products The suitability of any product for marketing or the determination of the patent position regarding any formulation is the responsibility of the person who manufactures and or sells the product Many firms have generously provided formulation suggestions and they merit my sincere appreciation for their help Their contributions are acknowledged by appropriate references at the end of each chapter

Science of Sugar Confectionery William P Edwards,2018-10-26 Since the first edition of The Science of Sugar Confectionery 2000 the confectionery industry has responded to ever changing consumer habits This new edition has been thoroughly revised to reflect industry s response to market driven nutrition and dietary concerns as well as changes in legislation labelling and technology Building on the strengths of the first edition the author s personal knowledge and experience of the sugar confectionery industry is used to provide a thorough and accessible account of the field Written so the reader needs no more than a rudimentary level of chemistry this book covers the basic definitions commonly used and new ingredients in the industry It then discusses the various types of sugar confectionery including sugar glasses boiled sweets grained sugar products fondants toffees and fudges hydrocolloids gums pastilles and jellies and concludes with a new chapter on future outlooks Featuring expanded coverage of special dietary needs covering topics such as vegetarianism and veganism religious requirements and supplemented products this new edition reflects current and evolving needs in the sugar confectionery field

The Science of Sugar Confectionery W. P. Edwards,2000 Confectionery is a topic close to many people s hearts and its manufacture involves some interesting science The confectionery industry is divided into three classes chocolate flour and sugar confectionery It is the background science of this latter category that is covered in The Science of Sugar Confectionery The manufacture of confectionery is not a science based industry as these products have traditionally been created by skilled confectioners working empirically In fact scientific understanding of the production process has only been acquired retroactively Historically however sugar confectionery has had technological synergies with the pharmaceutical industry such as making sugar tablets and applying panned sugar coatings This book gives an introduction to the subject with some basic definitions and commonly used ingredients and then moves on to discuss the chemistry of various types of sugar confectionery These include sugar glasses boiled sweets grained sugar products fondants toffees and fudges hydrocolloids gums pastilles and jellies and concludes with a chapter dedicated to sugar free confectionery
