Morgan,Richard L. Morgan,2006-04-01 Sooner or later each one of us faces death our own or others we care about And yet few take time beforehand to think about these endings and in the process may lose the wisdom of the ages that comes after facing death Perhaps this explains why when Plato was asked to summarize his philosophy he reportedly said Practice dying He understood that dying is what each one of us does throughout our lives whether it is leaving home the first time to go to school or departing from this planet when our lives end If we learn how to die to let go and get our egos out of the way we will have gained wisdom about how best to live This brief yet comprehensive book deals not only with the philosophical and psychological meaning of death but its practical implications for our lives Written by two brothers who have taught philosophy ethics psychology and religion at community colleges and four year private colleges this book can be used in many learning situations whether part of courses in philosophy ethics psychology or counseling or for short term workshops or continuing education courses for students in human services health care social work or any of the helping professions New Man for the New Millennium Osho,2000 Osho Says It Is Imperative That We Become New Human Beings As We Enter The New Millennium He Elucidates The Seven Essential Qualities Of The New Man And Examines Issues That Have Bedevilled Generations Love Relationships Marriage Family Money Power Work And Morality Showing Us How To Let Go Of Our Past He Invites Us To Wake Up To Our Enlightenment Philosophy of Man Manuel B. Lucretius as Theorist of Political Life J. Colman,2012-12-05 John Colman has presented us with a profound and scrupulously detailed inquiry into how Lucretius understood the tensions between the philosophic life and the requirements and characteristics of the life of political action tensions with which Lucretius had to deal in his endeavor to bring philosophy into Rome James H Nichols Jr Professor of Government Claremont McKenna College USA Lucretius has been drawing renewed attention for both the depth of his message and the beauty of his poem Nevertheless only a few commentators are attentive to the paradox of a philosophic teaching that reduces everything to matter in motion in the form of a beautiful poem John Colman represents the even more rare case of someone who sees this paradox and explains it intelligently He is able to show the way Lucretius addresses those interested in beauty and those interested in politics in a work that appears to reject both Christopher Kelly Professor of Political Science Boston College USA A careful study of Lucretius by a notable young scholar showing not just assuming that he had a politics The result is to reveal how his politics compares with that in the Socratic tradition and how he was distorted by his modern students and interpreters Harvey C Mansfield Professor of Government at Harvard Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution Stanford USA Lucretius as Theorist of Political Life is an interpretation of Lucretius poem On the Nature of Things as a defense of philosophy given the irremediable tension between the competing claims of the philosophic and political life The central issue is the need for and attempt by philosophy to justify and defend its way of life to the political community This work uncovers how Lucretius conception of the philosophic life and the reaction to the human religious and political implications of the discovery of nature distinguish his intention from the anti theological animus that drives the politically and scientifically ambitious project of his modern appropriators
