Organizational Literacy For Educators:

Organizational Literacy for Educators Jason Earle, Sharon D. Kruse, 1999-02-01 Teachers and administrators who understand the politics in schools can operate more successfully to facilitate change This text teaches educators to identify and influence common social patterns that affect their work in school organizations It combines literature from educational leadership and foundations of education to provide a comprehensive introduction to organizational theories related to schooling A particularly notable feature is that in addition to traditional bureaucratic and political approaches there is a substantial focus on recent critical and feminist theories Extensive use of narrative vignettes makes the theories accessible for prospective and practicing teachers Practice cases and exercises assist students in applying the theories to their own organization settings Assuming little prior knowledge of theories about school organizations this volume is intended as a text for introductory graduate courses as well as for advanced undergraduate courses and groups such as site based management teams and district professional development committees Organizational Literacy for Educators , Organizational Change to Improve Health Literacy Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Roundtable on Health Literacy, 2013-10-15 Organizational Change to Improve Health Literacy is the summary of a workshop convened in April 2013 by the Institute of Medicine Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice Roundtable on Health Literacy As a follow up to the 2012 discussion paper Ten Attributes of a Health Literate Health Care Organization participants met to examine what is known about implementation of the attributes of a health literate health care organization and to create a network of health literacy implementers who can share information about health literacy innovations and problem solving This report discusses implementation approaches and shares tools that could be used in implementing specific literacy strategies Although health literacy is commonly defined as an individual trait there is a growing appreciation that health literacy does not depend on the skills of individuals alone Health literacy is the product of the interaction between individuals capacities and the health literacy related demands and complexities of the health care system System changes are needed to better align health care demands with the public s skills and abilities Organizational Change to Improve Health Literacy focuses on changes that could be made to achieve this goal The New Schoolhouse Mary-ellen Boyle, 2001-07-30 This unique book describes literacy programs that take place in contemporary workplaces and explores their consequences for the employees especially the managers the organizations and society as a whole Employing a critical sociological perspective Boyle argues that literacy education in the workplace has as much to do with organizational legitimacy and managerial ideology as with illiterate workers Her analysis reveals that such programs can be understood as having a range of consequences Not only do they increase skills these programs improve work attitudes and show employer beneficence They also assimilate immigrants assure retention and stability at the lowest organizational level legitimize competitive strategy based on investment in human resources privatize a neglected public good and allow middle managers to maintain their position in the hierarchy among other things As a result she suggests that employer sponsored literacy programs have the effect of perpetuating the inequities experienced by those at the bottom of the organizational chart despite the rhetoric of egalitarianism and opportunity that typically accompanies educational endeavors Through the example of workplace literacy programs Boyle debunks the commonplace assumption that education is an unmitigated good and addresses fears of corporate co optation The phenomenon of employer sponsored education is revealed to be complex and contradictory with consequences that extend beyond the classroom walls Economic inequities are exacerbated by such programs and the social problems associated with illiteracy are not alleviated By exploring the boundary blurring that occurs when market organizations become involved with non market ideas and practices when public and private sector responsibilities shift and when the workplace becomes the new schoolhouse Boyle illuminates the complexities involved at organizational individual and societal levels and Gregor have been testing out instructional methods and materials for many years Mapping Social Relations is the product of that effort Civic Literacy in Schools and Communities Brian Charest,2021 Because many of our schools fail to address the health and well being of both students and their communities teachers and teacher educators are in need of a revised vision for teaching and schooling one that is committed to civic and community engagement where we see school and community building as reciprocal not separate projects This vision of schooling places the health and well being of individuals and their communities at the center of the curriculum and sees partnership and collaboration with communities and community and democratic revitalization as a central goal of education Teachers need specific strategies and ideas for reviving our democracy and revitalizing communities strategies that I have learned from community organizers and then used to guide me in my own journey as a teacher and a teacher educator e g building intentional relationships organizing listening campaigns integrating and valuing local knowledge teaching democratic practices giving students choice and agency in school exploring who we are and what and how we know examining our intellectual and ethical commitments mapping community assets holding relational meetings creating community engagement councils working directly with community based organizations CBOs organizing accountability sessions with public officials working to create healthy and sustainable spaces running voter registration drives co creating curriculum with students marching protesting participating in public arts etc Catone 2016 Warren 2005 Occasional Papers in Education ,1951 Tentative Outline of Activities and Procedures in Physical Education for Girls in Cleveland Junior and Senior High Schools Cleveland (Ohio).
