Kirby, Carole M. Cusack, 2026-02-02 Drawing together formative works from across the interrelated disciplines of religion and media this collection will articulate the field of religion and media Incorporating both historical and contemporary concerns and a range of methodological approaches this major work will focus upon the variety of ways in which religion and media impact facilitate and imbricate with each other The field encompassed by this collection is constantly changing and diverse It covers a range of inquiry from the age old questions regarding traditional human mediation of religious experience to the emerging problems associated with the study of religion and digital media and other developing technologies Religion is mediated in a multitude of ways including through the written word artistic expression electronic and digital technologies such as television and internet as well as more evanescent modes such as ritual and performance This series recognises the role that diverse media play in the interpretation and understanding of religion in the work of scholars and in the lives of religious individuals and communities The intersection of media and communication studies and religious studies is woefully under representative of the relationship that media and religion has in theory history and lived experience The two disciplines have recently begun to address this increasingly bringing together subjects from both fields Thus a collection that compiles both foundational as well as recent scholarship on religion and media is a welcome addition representing where the interest began but also moving scholarship in future directions The work's interpretation of religion is broad and encompasses not just religions traditionally recognised as such eg world religions but also a more fluid recognition of religious behaviour such as religions based on fiction or more abstract religious themes such as death The Third Book of Modern Verse Jessie Belle Rittenhouse, 1927 Shadow Hawk Garry Kilworth, 2011-09-29 Somewhere deep in the mighty rainforest is the Kingdom of the Sun Bear And there legend has it are the seven ancient heads of the Punan and the secret of untold riches To find and possess the heads a man must brave not only the terrifying creatures of the forest but must also risk the displeasure of the
