Search For Form In Art And Architecture:

Search for Form. A Fundamental Approach to Art.[Illustr.] Eliel Saarinen,1948 Search for Form Eliel

Saarinen,2017-07-19 Excerpt from Search for Form A Fundamental Approach to Art IN the search for form when sincere and honest the action is twofold to create form and to diagnose the created form Accordingly as the artist proceeds with his creation there simultaneously develops a rationalizing yet unwritten analysis Of the work This analysis is a personal meditation characteristic of the individual and therefore independent Of the thoughts Of Others Nevertheless the nearer the thoughts Of the individual approach indispensable fundamentals the closer will they contact the thoughts of Others engaged in the same search During the many years of my work in the field of art in general and in architecture in particular I have always tried to approach my problems in accordance with this two fold procedure through work and then through an analytic criticism of this work This analytic criticism has been a natural discipline springing from the work itself for my self only and not an intentional systematizing of thought for Others to follow This dual procedure I felt was essential particularly in my case as conditions began to spin about myself and my efforts For those years from 1894 to 1897 during which I got my first dose in Classical architecture coincided with those very years when it finally became evident that the Classical form after all is not the form to be used for contemporary purpose but that our time must develop an architectural form Of its own So was the reasoning in forward looking circles and for sure forward looking circles are the only criterion About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Search for Form in Art and Architecture Eliel Saarinen,1985 Eliel Saarinen father of Eero Saarinen and the foremost architectural conceptualist of this century trained a generation of visionaries at the famous Cranbrook Academy of Art where he presided as Director from 1932 to 1948 He profoundly altered the course of modern art with his bold innovative style and ceaseless striving for ideal form In this important volume the leader of the American Bauhaus has set down the principles that guided his work making them comprehensible to the general reader and student Emphasizing design on an organic level and an interrelated study of all fields of art Saarinen rejects the slavish mimicry of old exhausted styles e.g. Classicism and Romanticism Instead he promotes the development of fresh modes of artistic expression appropriate to each new generation Saarinen's persuasive and illuminating text is divided into three main sections Part I consists of an introductory analysis an historical overview of art and an examination of art in the modern world highlighting the role of mechanization Part II addresses the creative instinct organic order form and vitality and form and time In Part III form is related to aspects of
