Lassander, 2014-08-28 Post Materialist Religion discusses the transformations of the individual's worldview in contemporary modern societies and the role general societal value change plays in these. In doing so Mika Lassander brings into conversation sociological theories of secularisation and social psychological theories of interpersonal relations, the development of morality and the nature of basic human values. The long term decline of traditional religiosity in Europe and the emerging ethos that can be described as post secular have brought religion and values back into popular discussion. One important theme in these discussions is about the links between religion and values with the most common assumption being that religions are the source of individuals values. This book argues for the opposite view suggesting that religions or people's worldviews in general reflect the individual's priorities. Mika Lassander argues that the transformation of the individual's worldview is a direct consequence of the social and economical changes in European societies since the Second World War. He suggests that the decline of traditional religiosity is not an indication of linear secularisation or of forgetting traditions but an indication of the loss of relevance of some aspects of the traditional institutional religions. Furthermore he argues that this is not an indication of the loss of ethical value base but rather a change in the value base and consequently the transformation of the legitimating framework of this value base.

A History of War in 100 Battles Richard Overy, 2014-10-23 A history of warfare distilled into 100 momentous battles, epic moments that have shaped our world. In Search of the Classic Steven Shankman, 1994 The classical Steven Shankman argues should not be confused with a particular historical period of Western antiquity although it may owe its original articulation to the literary and philosophical explorations of ancient Greek authors. Shankman's book searches for and attempts to formulate the shape of the continuing presence as embodied in particular literary works mainly from Western antiquity and the neoclassical and modern periods of what the author calls a classical understanding of literature. For Shankman literature defined from a classical perspective is a coherent, compelling and rationally defensible representation that resists being reduced either to the mere recording of material reality or to the bare exemplification of an abstract philosophical precept. He derives his definition largely from his reading of Greek literature from Homer through Plato, from the history of literary criticism and from the Greco-Roman tradition in English, American and French literature. Shankman reveals unsuspected yet convincing connections among authors of such widely disparate times and places. His idea of the classic that authorizes these connections is presented as normative, thus making possible the evaluation of literary works and in turn forthright discussion of what constitutes the literary as distinct from other kinds of discourse. Shankman's study runs counter to a strong tendency of contemporary criticism that argues precisely against any distinct category of the literary. He offers a series of interpretations that cumulatively advance theoretical discussion by challenging scholars to rethink the critical paradigms of postmodernism. At the center of the book is a discussion of the quintessentially classic Valéry poem Le Cimetière marin and the classic qualities it shares with Pindar's third Pythian ode from which Valéry derives the epigraph for his poem George Orwell Harold Bloom, 2007 George Orwell wrote many essays and political pamphlets yet most know him for his fable Animal Farm and novel 1984 The essays in this enhanced Bloom's Modern Critical Views volume offer precise commentary on Orwell's political views his perspective on totalitarianism and the forms of realism in his works It provides an enriching resource for students looking to gain a deeper comprehension of Orwell's relevant themes Beyond Oppression M. E. Hawkesworth, 1990 Explores aspects of feminist theory and political strategy of our post sixties and post seventies culture by investigating obstacles to a full realization of feminist objectives Outlines a pragmatic political strategy that can unite men and women in a movement to achieve a truly egalitarian policy From Science to Subjectivity Walter Soffer, 1987-08-26 The past two decades have witnessed a flourishing of studies on Descartes by English language commentators The focus of attention has been the Meditations which continues to be regarded as the Archimedean point of Cartesian philosophy The schism that has characterized the history of Cartesian scholarship persists throughout this most recent revival of interest in Descartes The fundamental issue continues to be the question concerning the sincerity or insincerity of Descartes theological metaphysics Renaissance and Reformation Toronto Renaissance and reformation colloquium, 1994 Women, the Environment and Sustainable Development Rosi Braidotti, International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women, 1994 There is a widespread perception that the development process is in a state of multiple crisis While the notion of sustainable development is supposed to address adequately its environmental dimensions there is still no agreed framework relating women to this new perspective This book is an attempt to present and disentangle the various positions put forward by major actors and to clarify the political and theoretical issues that are at stake in the debates on women the environment and sustainable development Among the current critiques of the Western model of development which the authors review are the feminist analysis of Science itself and the power relations inherent in the production of knowledge Women Environment and Development WED Alternative Development Environmental Reformism and Deep Ecology Social Ecology and Ecofeminism In traversing this important landscape of ideas they show how they criticise the dominant development model at the various levels of epistemology theory and policy The authors also go further and put forward their own ideas as to the basic elements they consider necessary in constructing a paradigmatic shift emphasising such values as holism mutuality justice autonomy self reliance sustainability and peace This unique work is a signally useful contribution to clarifying thinking on a topic with immense implications for all women Coming of Age in a Digital Era Mary L. Gray, 2004 Writing the Pioneer Woman Janet Floyd, 2002 Written in response to the highly critical discussion of the attitudes and activities of female civilizers within New Western history and postcolonial studies Writing the Pioneer Woman will be a valuable addition to the burgeoning discussion of the literature of domesticity Whose Place? Delys Bird, Dennis Haskell, 1992 A Study of Sally Morgan's My Place The Theory and Practice of International Relations James R.
