Mathematics and Democracy Steven J. Brams, 2009-12-02 Voters today often desert a preferred candidate for a more viable second choice to avoid wasting their vote Likewise parties to a dispute often find themselves unable to agree on a fair division of contested goods In Mathematics and Democracy Steven Brams a leading authority in the use of mathematics to design decision making processes shows how social choice and game theory could make political and social institutions more democratic Using mathematical analysis he develops rigorous new procedures that enable voters to better express themselves and that allow disputants to divide goods more fairly One of the procedures that Brams proposes is approval voting which allows voters to vote for as many candidates as they like or consider acceptable There is no ranking and the candidate with the most votes wins The voter no longer has to consider whether a vote for a preferred but less popular candidate might be wasted In the same vein Brams puts forward new more equitable procedures for resolving disputes over divisible and indivisible goods John Calvin Anthony N.S.
