Proportionate Sentencing Exploring The Principles:

Proportionate Sentencing Andrew Von Hirsch, Andrew Ashworth, 2005 This book is about the principle of proportionality the principle that a sentence should be proportionate to the seriousness of the offense committed Although the principle has often been discussed this book breaks new ground by examining more fully the detailed arguments for the theory and for applying it to a range of situations including young offenders dangerous offenders and socially deprived offenders The authors are well known for their previous writings on proportionality theory and this book broadens the theory to deal with important contemporary issues in crime and punishment

Proportionate Sentencing Andrew Von Hirsch, 2005 This book is about the principle of proportionality the principle that a sentence should be proportionate to the seriousness of the offence committed It examines the detailed arguments for the theory and for applying it to a range of situations including young offenders dangerous offenders and socially deprived offenders

Mitigation and Aggravation at Sentencing Julian V. Roberts, 2011-08-25 This innovative volume explores a fundamental issue in the field of sentencing the factors which make a sentence more or less severe All sentencing systems allow courts discretion to consider mitigating and aggravating factors and many legislatures have placed a number of such factors on a statutory footing Yet many questions remain regarding the theory and practice of mitigation and aggravation Drawing on legal and sociological perspectives and examining mitigation and aggravation in various jurisdictions the essays provide practical illustrations of specific factors as well as theoretical justifications After the foreword by Andrew von Hirsch a number of contributors address broad conceptual issues raised at sentencing These contributions are followed by several empirical chapters including an exploration of personal mitigation in English courts The authors are leading scholars from a range of common law jurisdictions including England and Wales the United States Canada Australia New Zealand and South Africa

Principles and Values in Criminal Law and Criminal Justice Lucia Zedner, Julian V. Roberts, 2012-08-16 Celebrating the scholarship of one of the leading lawyers of the common law Andrew Ashworth the essays in this volume address fundamental questions of principle and value in criminal law criminal process human rights sentencing and punishment This is a major contribution to contemporary debates about criminalization and punishment

Preventive Justice Andrew Ashworth, Lucia Zedner, 2014 Preventative Justice looks at the use of coercive preventive measures by the state both within and beyond criminal law Examining preventive laws measures and institutions in and outside the criminal law it explores the justifications given for using coercion to protect the public from harm

Criminal and Quasi-criminal Enforcement Mechanisms in Europe Vanessa Franssen, Christopher Harding, 2022-02-24 This book looks at the interplay between criminal and other branches of public law pursuing similar objectives referred to as quasi criminal law The need for clarifying the concepts and the interlink between criminal and quasi criminal enforcement is a topic attracting a lot of discussion and debate both in academia and practice across Europe and beyond This volume adds to this debate by bringing to light the substantive and procedural problems stemming from the current parallel or dual use of the different enforcement systems The collection draws on expertise from academia practice and policy its high quality analysis will appeal to scholars practitioners and policymakers alike
